The O. Quadruplets
30 Loads of Air Mail
Helen Wills' Husband
Four Great Old Men

—By Arthur Brisbane—

STANDARD OIL of Indiana went skyrocketing yesterday, as everybody might have known it would do.

Mr. Rockefeller asked for proxies to put Colonel Stewart out. Colonel Stewart asked for proxies to keep him in. The quickest way to get proxies is to BUY them. The stock calmed down after somebody bought 95,800 shares of it.

It's a hard fight, and when it is over this question will arise: Assuming that Colonel Stewart, now head of Standard Oil of Indiana, defeats John D. Rockefeller, or as Wall Street believes that he will do, how will that affect Standard Oil of Indiana?

The doctors said one Siamese twin couldn't live if the other were cut away. The little Standard Oil octopuses of New York, New Jersey, Indiana, California are Siamese quadruplets. What will happen to one if it is cut away? What will happen to the other three, with little sister from Indiana gone?

Wise business men use the air mail. They are interested in building up a most important Government institution, and they know that letters marked Air Mail command attention.

Today John N. Willys will send from Toledo more than 30 airships carrying 30,000 pounds of air mail addressed to 6000 towns in every State in the Union.

This "batch of letters" will include 700,000 pieces of mail concerning Mr. Willys' Whippet car.

Twenty Army pursuit planes from Selfridge Field will accompany the mail planes, making a first-class spectacle in proof of commercial aviation development in the United States.

Everybody's peaceful, nobody wants war, but if we DID have war it is comforting to remember that those 30 mail planes, with Army pursuit planes to accompany and protect them, could carry 30,000 pounds of food and medical supplies, or 30,000 pounds of poison gas, or explosives, to discourage invading forces on sea or land.

Helen Wills, wonderful California girl, will marry Frederick Shander Moody, Jr., of San Francisco, a union of Northern and Southern California that interests the whole nation.

Those who believe that the human race could be quickly and greatly improved if the right young men married the right young women will be interested in this wedding, and hope that Mr. Moody may be worthy of his wonderful good fortune.

Clemenceau and Foch, to whom France owes most in this generation, were both ill, and both are better; good news for everybody.

Clemenceau, the "Old Tiger," enjoys life in spite of his 87 years. The world hopes that he will go on long enjoying it, also the gratitude of his friends, and the animosity of his enemies.

He enjoys one as much as the other.

In a war that enlisted the youth, energy and intelligence of many great nations, the four men standing out above all others were all old men, Lloyd George, Foch, Clemenceau, Von Hindenburg.

Dakota and Illinois favor calling our language "The American Language," not the "English Language."

A bill is introduced in the Dakota Legislature to that effect.

Patriotism is admirable in all its forms, but after all it is the "ENGLISH LANGUAGE." We borrowed it from the English and we adopted it.

A spade is a spade, and English is English. It is a first class language, created by the genius of English writers and orators and will keep its name.

We can afford to give credit where it is due. Other nations credit us with the telephone, flying machine, the phonograph, the steamboat and a few other [illegible]hings that really are AMERI[illegible]N, and don't try to change [illegible] nationality.

[illegible]ile we ask a few questions, an[illegible]t no very satisfactory answe[illegible]nd sign a Peace Pact, wise [illegible]ance appropriates 989,000,000 francs for 18 warships. One 10,000-ton cruiser is intended among them, also "six cruising submarines," gigantic undersea battleships, and a big submarine to lay mines for blowing up enemy ships is also included.

The French like peace and peace pacts, but they also like SAFETY and mean to have it.

National prohibition was nine years old yesterday, and Mr. Whalen, New York city's new police commissioner, celebrated by raiding 32 speakeasies, arresting 32 men. This left about 24,968 speakeasies operating in New York city, and heaven knows how many hundreds of thousands throughout the whole United States.

$10,000 JEWELS LOST BY TWO IN BOSTON

A $6000 string of pearls and a wallet containing $4000 worth of uncut diamonds were reported to Boston police today as lost.

The pearls were the property of Mrs. Guy Waring, wealthy Milton resident, wife of a retired Boston banker. She wore the necklace to a Boston theater last night. When she returned to her home the string was missing.

The loss of the diamonds was reported by Edward Sagar, Boston diamond merchant.

Sager said he had the jewels in a leather wallet when he left his offive in the Providence building, Washington st., today. At Bromfield st. he found the wallet was missing. He hurried back to his office, but neither wallet nor diamonds were there.

"BABE" RUTH LEAVES HIS WIFE IN HER GRAVE

HOME RUN KING WEEPS AS SHE IS BURIED IN MATTAPAN CEMETERY

On the slope of a pine-topped hill and with the sobs of baseball's biggest figure sounding above the creak of casket-lowering machinery, Mrs. "Babe" Ruth was buried today in Old Calvary Cemetery, Mattapan.

Bareheaded and unmindful of the snow sifting down on his black, tousled hair, the home-run hitter of the New York Yankees cried at the grave, openly and unashamed.

He was a strange figure in contrast to the "Babe" of the baseball parks, but although he seemed on the point of collapse several times and Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley stood behind by way of preparedness, he pulled himself together.

About him were the family of his dead wife, Mrs. Johanna Woodford, Miss Nora Woodford, Miss Catherine Woodford, Mrs. Josephine McCarthy, Mrs. Mary Tighe and William, Thomas and Michael Woodford.

Sorrowing Mother Is Steadied by Ruth's Arm

They all were sobbing and when it seemed at one time that Mrs. Woodford was beset by weakness, the "Babe" turned quickly and took her arm, steadying her. It took his thoughts away for a moment and he regained composure until Mrs. Tighe broke out sobbing afresh.

Seven minutes were consumed at the graveside on the slope of the hill in Old Calvary from the time the mourning party arrived until the undertaker, Joseph Doherty, turned them kindly away.

And then the "Babe," with Supt. Crowley at his side, again took the arm of his mother-in-law and escorted her back to the car in which he had ridden with her and the police superintendent and Mrs. McCarthy from the South Boston home to the cemetery.

He helped her into the limousine and then, with his huge bulk halfway in the machine, he reached over and shook her hand.

"Goodbye, 'Babe,'" she said.

He said some words that were indistinguishable, and then withdrew. His eyes were glistening again with tears.

BLAMES SHOE COMPANY FOR 20 LYNN DEATHS

Unlawful acts and negligence on the part of the Preble Box Toe Co. and its officers contributed to the deaths of the 20 who lost their lives in the explosion at the factory on Brookline st., Lynn, last November, Judge Reeve of Lynn court declared today in his inquest finding.

Judge Reeve caused a surprise in his report by adding that Fire Chief Edward E. Chase in his opinion did not properly perform his duties regarding fire prevention.

FIVE IN HOLDUP ESCAPE WITH $200,000 GEMS

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—Five young men, working with the precision of apparent long experience, held up tthe Park ave. jewelry shop of G. Mauboussin shortly before noon today and escaped with gems which the proprietor valued at $200,000. They took the stones from the safe and showcases. The robbers left bound and gagegd behind them in a rear room of the shop the manager, his girl secretary, a clerk, a special patrolman and a visiting jeweler. The getaway was made in an auto waiting at the curb.

Blissfully Ignorant of Entanglements Twining About Her Destiny

HER FATE IN DOUBT
Little Dorothy Ruth, who has been in the custody of the mighty homerun king and Mrs. Ruth since she was taken by them from an orphanage, is shown here in the days of her infancy. What will be done with her remains the chief problem following the death of Mrs. Ruth.

WITH HER "MOTHER"
The tragic death of Mrs. Ruth, fire victim in Dr. Kinder's Watertown home, is almost forgotten as Dorothy, shown here with Mrs. Ruth, awaits unknowingly the outcome of a settlement that will either send her to the family of Mrs. Ruth—to the Babe—or back to the orphanage home from where it is reported the Babe took her.

SCHOOL GIRL
Dorothy, as a pupil at the Academy of the Assumption at Wellesley, is said to be under a "continued custody" agreement from the Catholic orphanage.

MAY BE RETURNED
This means that it is possible that Dorothy might be returned to the orphanage, and removed from the limelight of publicity.

BABE WANTS HER
But the Babe, whose affection for the girl can be understood from this picture, doesn't want to lose her. All staff photos.

LITTLE DOROTHY RUTH NOT AT FUNERAL OF HER 'MOTHER'

Still uncovered, he turned and looked back at the grave—stood for seconds while the snow fell.

Supt. Crowley stepped up and tapped him on the arm. "Come on, Babe," he said, and the big ball player turned and walked with the superintendent to another car, in which he was taken back to the Hotel Brunswick.

Of the family, only Dorothy, nine-year-old adopted daughter of "Babe" and Mrs. Ruth, was absent. She was left at the Academy of the Assumption in Wellesley and was not subjected to the pain of gazing on the face of her dead foster-mother.

Funeral Procession Starts Off in the Snow

The funeral procession left the Woodford home just as snow began to fall, shortly after 9 a. m.

In the first car were the three brothers of Mrs. Ruth, William, Thomas and Michael Woodford.

The second car had as riders the Misses Nora and Catherine Woodford and Mrs. Mary Tighe of New York City.

In the third car rode Mrs. Johanna Woodford, the mother; Mrs. Josephine McCarthy, a sister of Mrs. Ruth; the "Babe" himself, and Supt. Crowley.

Although the three brothers were honorary pallbearers with Attorney John P. Feeney, Attorney Thomas W. McEnaney, 2nd, and Arthur Crowley, the brothers rode alone, while the other three attendants were in a car back somewhat in the funeral cavalcade.

The actual carrying of the casket was done by assistants of the undertaker.

The Rev. Richard Burke, who had said the prayers in the house, saw Mrs. Woodford safely in her machine before returning to St. Augustine's.

Through West Fourth st. to F st., the 20 cars rolled as the snow fell, and then turned through Fifth st. to Dorchester st., through Andrew sq. and Boston st., to Andrew sy., Dorchester, and up Columbia rd. to Blue Hill ave.

The route lad along Blue Hill ave. to the south as far as Canterbury st., skirting Franklin Park, and the funeral cortege turned into the Canterbury st. gate to thread its way almost through the cemetery to the pine-topped hill just inside the entrance from Ashland st.

Without waiting for the police superintendent, "Babe" Ruth stumbled out of his machine and took the arm of his mother-in-law, removing his black felt slouch hat as he did so

It was only a step to the grave, beside which was a mound of earth. But the mound had been thickly covered by pine needles and a blanket of flowers bearing the single word, "Mother," had been placed atop.

Funeral Service In Flower-Filled Room

They were a tense seven minutes that followed, but the undertaker, in keeping with the modern custom of dispensing with unnecessary ceremonies at the grave, read the prayers for the dead and then himself headed the departure.

Before leaving the Woodford home in West Fourth st., South Boston, the simplest sort of ceremony was held before the frosted-silver casket that literally was buried with flowers.

Just a few prayers were recited, but during the proceedings Supt. Crowley, his son, Arthur, and Attorney John P. Feeney were close to "Babe."

It was a room whose walls were literally walls of flowers—that in which the prayers for the dead were read by a priest from St. Augustine's Church and answered by the assembled throng.

And the deep, tremulous rumble of the "Babe's" voice could be distinguished from the rest.

In the room there was "Babe's" own last tribute to his wife, a huge blanket of roses and lilies. And there were floral pieces bearing names of Lou Gehrig, Herb Pennock, Jacob Ruppert, Miller Huggins and scores of other celebrities of the Yankees and of the baseball world.

Outside, stationed the entire block of West Fourth st., from F st. to Dorchester ave., were 28 policemen in charge of Capt. King and Sergt. Charles Brewer of the Athens st. station.

They held back and away from the house a crowd of several hundred curious.

The house itself was thronged long before the hour set for the funeral, 9 o'clock.

"Babe" Ruth, clad in sombre black and with his heavy face lined and drawn, arrived at 8:40 in the sedan of his counsel, Atty. Feene. In the machine also were Supt. Crowley and Arthur Crowley.

The home-run hitter stepped shakily out of the car and was immediately flanked by his companions, who walked close beside him as he ascended the front steps of the Woodford home.

He reached the fifth step in his climb, seemed to falter a moment, then his hand raised and he removed his hat, almost dropping it in his nervousness.

For a second he gazed at the thin ribbon of knotted gray crepe beside the door; then he started forward again and entered the house.

The body was carried out to the waiting hearse shortly after 9 o'clock

The requiem mass will be celebrated tomorrow morning at St. Augustine's Church, but Ruth probably will not attend.

The body of the woman who met her tragic death in the Watertown home of Dr. Kinder, with whom she had been living, was taken to the home of her mother after it had been prepared for burial by a Newton undertaker following the release of the body by two medical examiners who found absolutely no trace of foul play in her death.

The mother viewed the body of her daughter for the first time and broke down shortly after the casket was opened. Mrs. McCarthy, a sister of Mrs. Ruth and one of the sisters who identified her body as it lay in the Thomas undertaking rooms in Newton, Sunday, designated as "Mrs. Helen Kinder," wife of a Back Bay dentist and almost ready to be taken to the grave under that name, collapsed when she saw the body.

1000 Wait in Front of Home for Babe to Come

More than 1000 persons, a large part of them women and children, waited for hours in front of the Woodford home hoping to catch a glimpse of Babe Ruth. His wife's body in the casket selected by the Babe at the cost of $1000, was carried into the house and placed close to a huge blanket of roses and lilies sent by Ruth, that nearly filled the room. Scores of relatives and neighbors viewed the body.

A detail of 25 police officers was assigned to the house, and no one but close friends, neighbors and relatives of Mrs. Ruth were allowed to enter. The police were forced to drive the crowd back time and again, and finally established lines some distance from the house. Despite the police rules, scores waited until early in the morning hoping to catch a glimpse of the Babe.

When Ruth called early today to kneel beside the bier of Mrs. Ruth in the Woodford home, he appeared in a daze, and to friends it seemed that he was unable to realize that the woman was dead.

The giant frame and broad shoulders of the man that had carried baseball honors for a decade collapsed, and tears streamed down a face now lined with sorrow and grief.

The Babe, as though in a dream, was carried through a crowd that choked the small parlor and hallway adjoining. A heaving chest gave vent to heavy sobs as he hurried away.

In sharp contrast to a heavy rumble of "There's the Babe" that passed through the crowd of 5000 who stormed the house, Ruth entered silently and greeted no one. He was dressed in mourning.

Crowley Consoles Babe on Ride to Grave of Wife

Perhaps the best comforter and consoler in Boston rode with "Babe" Ruth and Mrs. Johanna Woodford, husband and mother respectively of Mrs. Helen Ruth, from house to cemetery.

Police Supt. Michael H. Crowley took the broken-hearted ball player in charge for the ride and "Babe" had emerged considerably out of his mental slump by the time New Calvary was reached.

The parlor in which Mrs. Ruth's body lay, was to the left of Ruth as he entered the hallway. Ruth, somewhat dazed, started toward the right.

"Here, Babe," motioned Mrs. McCarthy, Mrs. Ruth's sister, to the famous ball player.

For a second Ruth seemed to recognize her, nodded, and walked into the parlor. Everywhere was flowers. In front of the window on a flower-covered bier lay his wife.

Slowly the "Babe" approached the bier. He knelt down, reached for the rail in front of the massive bronze casket, grasped it firmly with his left hand, and then made the sign of the cross. A dead silence followed.

Then Ruth's eyes rose slightly and fixed their gaze on the woman whose hand he took in marriage 15 years ago. His eyes became a stare Then Ruth leveled them on the closed eyes of his Helen.

To those in the small parlor it seemed as though the "Babe's" eyes were trying to see right though the body into somewhere far away. Then for five minutes Ruth's eyes maintained the glassy stare.

His right arm shook violently as the fingers fumbled the rosary beads he took from his coat pocket as he knelt before his wife.

For a second the famous ball player, whose nods on the ball parks are known to a million baseball fans who annually shout his name in joy, seemed to nod to his sleeping wife. It failed, however.

Then the "Babe" started to rise. He was able to raise but one knee, then he cried—cried out his heart and soul—cried with every ounce of strength within him—until those about him inside the house and on the steps outside heard the sobs and wept themselves.

Ruth Collapses as He Kneels By the Casket

Then he tried to rise again, his eyes remaining still fixed on the features of his wife.

Again he was able to lift but one knee. His strength gone, his huge frame out of control, he made one more desperate effort to get up and then collapsed completely.

Strong arms reached out for him at once. On his right was Superintendent Crowley. On his left knelt the superintendent's son, Arthur. Both reached quickly for the Babe and helped him to his feet. But there was no strength in those powerful leg muscles and they crumpled weakly. Then other arms reached out and carried the "Babe" toward the door.

In the hallway adjoining the parlor, gathered in a small group, stood the mother, sisters and brothers of Mrs. George Herman "Babe" Ruth, the women weeping quietly. The "Babe" was carried past them. He was entirely unconscious by now of his surroundings and could recognize no faces.

The strong arms supporting his relaxed frame now pushed him against the wall and held him propped up there. Then Atty. Feeney stepped toward him again, pinched the "Babe's" cheek and said, "Babe—everything has been arranged for the funeral in the morning. You won't have to wait. We are going to take you away now."

Then they carried him from the house and into the waiting automobile outside.

As plans were completed for the funeral, the official investigation into the death of Mrs. Ruth had been brought to a close. Dist. Atty. Robert T. Bushnell of Middlesex County announced that the case is closed so far as he is concerned, and expressed the hope that it is closed as far as everyone else was concerned.

His statement was made after he had received from Medical Examiner George B. Magrath of Suffolk County, who performed a complete autopsy, a verbal report that death was due to fire. He had also learned from the State House that the official report of the cause of the fire in the home of Dr. Kinder attributed the blaze to accidental overloading of electric wires.

In this connection, an admonition against amateurish tinkering with electric wiring and the substitution of unauthorized for authorised equipment is contained in the report on the fire made to State Fire Marshal George C. Neal by Albert L. Edson, executive secretary of the State examiners of electricians.

The overheating of a "receptacle" or socket in the partition on the first floor of the home of Dr. Kinder, the dentist with whom Mrs. Ruth lived, is given as the cause of the fire.

In his letter to the fire marshal, Edson says:

"'I am transmitting to you herewith the report of Mr. Ellis L. Dennis, investigator, regarding wiring conditions found at 47 Quincy st., Watertown.

"'I have gone over this report carefully and have also gone over the premises with Mr. Dennis and desire to substantiate this report in every particular.

"'I believe that the fire in question could only have been caused by overheating of a receptacle in the partition on the first floor, which apparently was not of an approved make, and to which were connected many wires and devices not installed in conformity with approved standards.

"'I believe that this incident should serve to illustrate the danger of the use and installation of un-

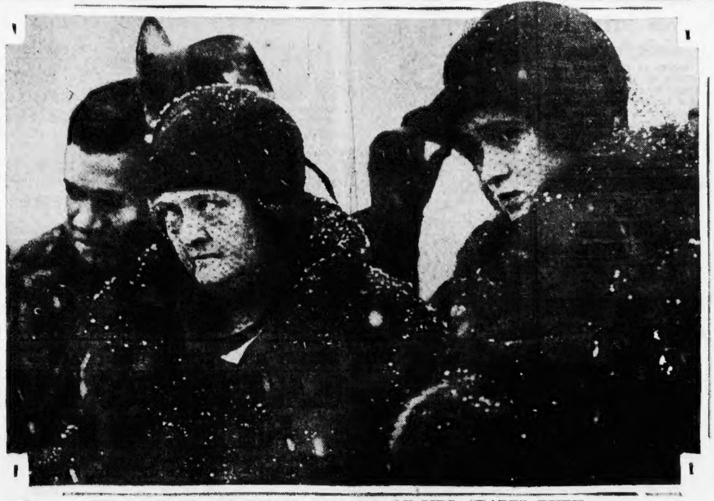
At Snow-Girt Grave In Old Calvary



SEE LAST OF ALL THAT'S MORTAL OF MRS. "BABE" RUTH
Standing in the storm at the cemetery in Mattapan, "Babe" Ruth, baseball's king of swatters; Mrs. Woodford, fire victim's mother, and Mrs. Josephine McCarthy, one of her sis ters, sobbed at times only to quickly regain composure, "Babe" comforted the bereaved mother and helped her back into the auto.

File New Certificate of Death for Mrs. Ruth

A NEW death certificate for Mrs. "Babe" Ruth was filed today with Town Clerk William Maguire of Watertown by Medical Examiner George L. West of Newton.

It reports that Helen Woodford Ruth, 47 Quincy st., Watertown, wife of George H. Ruth, aged 31 years and 3 months, died Jan. 11, the cause being suffocation and incineration in the burning of a dwelling house.

This is the same cause as appeared on the first certificate in which the deceased was called Helen Kinder, 28, wife of Dr. Edward H. Kinder.

The new certificate states that Mrs. Ruth's birthplace was East Boston. Her father is listed as Michael C. Woodford, born in Newfoundland, and her mother's maiden name is given as Johanna Breen, birthplace Newfoundland. On the original report "unknown" was written on the lines reserved for the parents' names.

Arthur Crowley, son of Police Supt. Michael H. Crowley of Boston, is the informant on the present report, while Dr. Kinder was the informant for the first.

The place of burial is given as Old Calvary, in place of St. Joseph's, as the first certificate stated. Edward A. Doherty of Newton is named as the undertaker and J. A. Boucher, agent of the board of health, issued the burial permit.

approved electrical wires and devices by unskilled persons.' "

The report of Mr. Dennis reads:

"The facts are as follows:

"The fire apparently originated in a partition on the first floor near a wall receptable. The fuses protecting the wiring in the house were not melted or blown. Two out of four of the sub-circuits were overfused, one to double capacity.

"The wire inspector says that part of the lights in the house were still burning when he arrived on the scene.

"The wiring in the house as originally installed by the contractor and as inspected by the inspector of wires, was apparently in excellent condition at the time of the fire.

"Additional wiring in armored cable to the ceiling light in the second floor sun porch was apparently installed after the original wiring was completed and the joints connecting these wires to the fixtures in the sun porch were unsoldered.

In the house there was installed many electrical devices, such as small motors, vacuum cleaners, a refrigerator, and many floor lamps, which had been apparently installed after the occupant moved in. The wiring of these devices, especially the floor lamps, is of a most faulty and amateurish sort, and would apparently place on the circuit wires and receptacle a greater load than they were intended to carry.

"Owing to the destruction of the building and contents by fire, and owing also to the destruction of a large part of the wiring by fire, it is impossible by test of investigation to definitely state that the fire was of electrical origin and that it started at any particular point. However, it is evident that under the conditions existing, a great potential hazard existed and that the fire might have started at almost any point in the building, due to the faulty wiring of electrical appliances, which appliances had apparently been installed by an unskilled person or persons.

Woman 'Bandit' Too Sick to Face Trial

The trial of Mrs. Bettina Massarelli of Dedham, for participation in a holdup in an Everett chain store on December 3, in Malden court today, was continued for the fourth time when her physician presented a certificate that she ill with a bronchial affection. Judge Davis continued the case to January 29.

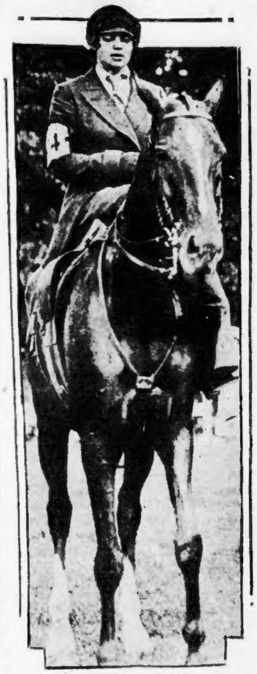
In the same court Frank A. Berry of Lawrence rd., Medford, charged with the larceny of $11,400 from Mrs. Minerva R. Perkins of Medford, waived examination and was held for the grand jury in reduced bail of $500.

Poor Box Robber Boy Suspect Held

A 16-year-old South Boston boy was in court today for the second time on a charge of robbing poor boxes. The present complaint alleges that he stole 25 cents from a box in St. Monica's Church, Dorchester ave., where boxes have been looted 35 times within a month.

The boy was previously convicted of stealing from moxes in St. Mark's Church, Dorchester, and received a suspended sentence. Today he was held in $300 by Judge Michael J. Day for a hearing in juvenile court Saturday.

HOSTESS OF ORLANDO



Signora Brambilla, formerly Miss Julia Meyer, daughter of George von L. Meyer, one-time American ambassador to Rome and before that secretary of the Navy, entertained Premier Orlando of Italy during the preliminary negotiations for a solution of the so-called "Roman problem" which now seems definitely settled and only awaits acceptance by the Pope and Mussolini. In order to keep the proceedings secret at that time Orlando conferred with Signor Brambilla, member of peace delegation at Paris, at his hotel apartments. Here the former Miss Meyer made a charming hostess.

Daughter Dorothy Sends Roses to Dead Mother

As the casket of Mrs. Helen Ruth slowly creaked down below the earth's surface to settle in a metal box, a beautiful little piece—a spray of roses—was placed on the casket.

"From Dorothy," the whisper went around the outer circle of those at the cemetery out of curiosity.

BABE BOWED IN GRIEF AT BIER OF HIS WIFE

"Babe" Ruth today bowed in grief before the casket of the girl he married 14 years ago.

It was a dramatic scene, that in the Woodford home in West Fourth st., South Boston, just before the funeral procession wheeled away through the sifting snow on the last journey that Mrs. Helen Woodford will ever make.

The Rev. Richard Burke, curate at St. Augustine's Church, South Boston, stood facing the frosted silver casket.

Directly behind the cleric stood the home-run record hitter, but his triumphs on the diamond were far, to him, in the background.

As the prayers fell from the lips of the priest, the deep but shaky booming of the "Babe's" voice could be heard above all the rest in the response of the 100 persons jammed into the flat.

Tears welled in his eyes and took erratic course down his cheeks, but he let them go unheeded.

At the "Babe's" right stood Police Superintendent Michael H. Crowley, sympathetic as only one can be into whose life tragedy has also entered. The burly superintendent held a cautious hand on "Babe's" elbow.

To the left stood John P. Feeney counsel for the ball player, and at the rear were: Arthur Crowley, son of the police director, and Thomas W. M Finaney, 2d, an attorney, of East Boston.

The three Woodford brothers, William, Thomas and Michael, were to the right of Superintendent Crowley, and at one side, grouped about the mother, Mrs. Johanna Woodford, who was seated, were the sisters of the dead Mrs. Ruth.

The prayers were brief, and when the last "Amen" was sounded, the undertaker, Joseph Doherty, skilfully broke the tension with a few calm directions to his assistants—and the "Babe" took Mrs. Woodford's arm and was out of the house and into the waiting automobile almost before he realized that the delicate moment was ended.

GIRL 'SLAYER' FREE ON BAIL

Meriden, Ct., Jan. 17 (INS)—Mrs. Eleanor Forster, 17, charged with stabbing to death her husband, Fred, 21, during a domestic quarrel, was free today on a coroner's bond of $3500.

She immediately went to the home of her sister, where her six-months-old child, Robert, was being cared for.

Deputy Coroner J. J. Corrigan said his unusual procedure in setting bonds in Mrs. Forster's case was due to "her extreme youthfulness." The Forsters married two years ago against the wishes of both families.

Adams to Resume World Trip

The S. S. President Adams of the Dollr steamship lines was not badly damaged when she went ashore at the Atlantic entrance to the Panama Canal last week and she will resume her journey around the world next Friday when she sails from Bolboa, it was announced at the local office of the company today.

TO CO-ORDINATE DRY AGENCIES IN BAY STATE

A committee has been appointed to draw up a plan to coordinate all temperance forces in Massachusetts The committee was named at a meeting of representatives of various civic and temperance groups at the Boston City Club.

The organizations represented were New England Watch and Ward Society, Massachusetts Christian Endeavor, International Reform Federation, Woman's Committee for Law Enforcement of Massachusetts, Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, North Avenue Baptist Church, Cambridge Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League, Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Society, Massachusetts Federation of Churches, Scientific Temperance Federation, Massachusetts State Grange and Newburyport Civic League.

A resolution was sent to Herbert Hoover, advising him of the intention of the meeting to follow his example in carrying out all laws, including the 18th Amendment.

5 Police Mourn At Mother's Bier

Three sons and two sons-in-law, all police officers, were present today at the funeral of Mrs. Margaret O'Connell of Willow pl., West Quincy. The services were held from St. Mary's Church. The Rev. William T. O'Connor officiated. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Quincy and Milton police departments were represented by large delegations. Mrs. O'Connell was the mother of Patrolmen Patrick, James and John O'Connell of Quincy and mother-in-law of Sergt. Frank Canaway of Quincy and Patrolman George Bertrand of Milton.

Brandle May Head Mass. Iron League

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 17 (AP)—Theodore N. Brandle, president of the New Jersey Building Trades and director general of the Iron League of New Jersey, announced today he had received an offer to become director general of the Iron League of Massachusetts, without severing his other affiliations. He said he was considering the proposal.

Brandle also is president of the Ironworkers District Council of New York and New Jersey, the Hudson County Building Trades Council and the Board of Business representatives of Hudson County.

Flu, Not Love Ache, Keeps Star at Home

New York, Jan. 17 (INS)—Flu, not heartache, is the reason why Helen Morgan hasn't been singing "Can't Help Lovin' That Man o' Mine" in Ziegfeld's "Showboat" since Tuesday.

Hr mother, Mrs. Lulu Morgan, made this statement today, putting at rest extravagant reports that the actress had mysteriously vanished, possibly because of a quarrel with Reginald Hammerstein.

Mrs. Morgan told the story of a losing battle against influenza which her daughter had waged for a week.

SHOE COMPANY BLAMED FOR 20 DEATHS

indirect to warrant calling it a contributory cause in the deaths, Judge Reeve reported, and he also expressed a belief that the officers of the company did not realize to the fullest extent the dangers that existed in their factory.

The court's report goes to Dist. Atty. William G. Clark of Essex county in accordance with the law.

Judge Reeve cited the law which he considered Fire Chief Chase had violated, showing that under its provisions and contingent on proof of his findings, the city of Lynn was liable to a fine of not more than $1000 and the chief to one of not more than $50. No other official, agent or servant of the city could be charged with unreasonable neglect, the report states.

Materials stored in the factory included, the judge reported, 5800 pounds of celluloid in wooden boxes or barrels; about 500 gallons of ethyl acetate, 500 gallons benzol, 850 gallons of alcohol and 50 gallons of acetone.

The report says that Horace M Eaton and George L. Preble, officers of the company, testified that they had not asked for a license or permit, but they also testified that firemen had inspected the factory and had made no suggestions or complaint, whereas an insurance company had made recommendations with which they complied fully.

Judge Reeve pointed out that the factory was only 10 feet, four inches from the home of the Blaney family, six members of which were killed or fatally injured.

He found that Chief Chase was negligent in not carrying out duties delegated to him, as to all fire chiefs, by the State fire marshal. Chief Chase, he said, testified to having inspected, with the marshal, another plant of the company where various changes were recommended, and he supposed the business at the Brookline st. factory was not such as to require a permit.

Three Are Dead In Belgium Blizzard

Brussels, Belgium, Jan. 17 (AP)—Three persons died from exhaustion caused by intense sold, one was killed in a street accident and scores were injured during the night when a blizzard raged throughout Belgium, covering some of the provinces with a blanket of snow two feet deep.

Road and rail traffic was paralyzed and the boat service with England was irregular. New breaches in dikes were reported from Termonde and Moerseke, inundating the surrounding low country for the third time in the past six weeks.

Snow began falling heavily again this morning.

BOY DIES, TWO HURT COASTING IN EVERETT

An Everett boy died today and another boy and a young nurse lie injured as a result of two coasting accidents at the same spot, Nichols and Lawrence sts., Everett.

JOHN THOMAS, 18, of Union st., died at Whidden Memorial Hospital from a fractured skull and internal injuries.

ALMA MOORE, 19, who was employed as a nurse at the hospital and who was coasting with Thomas, is under treatment there for an arm broken in two places and numerous bruises.

Victor P. GREENE, 11, of Lawrence st., the other injured boy, is at home with a fractured collarbone.

The Thomas boy and Miss Moore started their coast at the top of the hill on Lawrence st., not far from where the hospital is situated. At Nichols st. they hit an automobile operated, police say, by Samuel Dubrofsky of Tremont st., Melrose.

The Green boy coasted into another automobile earlier. The driver extricated him from beneath the car, and the boy's playmate dragged him home on a sled, while the motorist left without giving his name.

Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.

No longer need a trim, slender figure be your envy. No longer need you face the rigid requirements of harsh dieting methods. Overweight is banished when you banish fattening sweets and eating between meals and light a Lucky. "Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet."

20,679 physicians have confirmed the fact that Lucky Strike is less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes. These professional men realize the value of toasting, the secret process that eliminates impurities and irritants. Lucky Strike is a delightful blend of the world's finest tobaccos. And toasting develops a flavor which is a delightful alternative for fattening sweets.

Many prominent athletes testify that Luckies steady their nerves and do not harm their physical condition. Men have long known this and practiced it successfully. These are the men who watch their health, who keep trim and fit, realizing the dangers of overweight. And now, women may enjoy a companionable smoke with their husbands and brothers—at the same time slenderizing in a sensible manner. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

"It's toasted"

75 PER CENT OF BLOCK ISLAND DOWN WITH FLU

Providence, Jan. 17 (AP)—Block Island, which lies in stormy seas 10 miles off the Rhode Island coast, has 75 of its citizens stricken with influenza, one doctor to care for them, and until a few days ago one druggist to fill prescriptions.

Last Friday the pharmacist was put to bed, sick also, and for two days there was nobody on the island to mix prescriptions.

Hurry calls sent to the mainland for aid revealed that all druggists were needed where they were. The call, however, reached the ears of the druggist's brother, a health officer of a mainland town, and he went to the island to give aid. Two days after the druggist was stricken his brother was serving the pills and powders in his stead.

Four days went by and the druggist recovered sufficiently to get back to his prescription counter. His brother returned to his home and Block Island yesterday again presented its solid front against the deadly "flu" germs.

ELEVEN DIE IN HEAVY GALES

London, Jan. 17 (AP)—Gales sweeping the northwestern coast of Europe have carried 11 seamen to their deaths. Advices from Rotterdam stated that the crew of eight of the Hook of Holland lifeboat apparently perished when they put out to aid a vessel in distress.

The Swedish schooner Sophie was lost with a crew of three off the Scandinavian coast.

Twenty-six men forming the crew of the Norwegian steamer Skioma were rescued by salvage ships after the vessel stranded on the rocks of Bornholm Island, Denmark.

Heavy seas along the Belgian coast resulted in damage to the dykes at Middlekerke and Breedene.

Blizzards accompanied by a heavy fall of snow created havoc with traffic throughout Germany. Telephone and telegraph services were interrupted and express trains to Berlin from Copenhagen and Stockholm were hours late.

Violent snowstorms were sweeping Sweden and there was heavy winter weather in France and Denmark. Great Britain escaped with light snowfalls.

Works Way to See Where Flier Landed

Kottbus, Germany, Jan. 17 (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Knut Weinleather of Fort Lee, N. J., walked into the police station here and asked for shelter. He said he had come to see the famous place where Clarence Chamberlin made his historic landing in 1927 on his New York to Germany flight.

Weinleather said he had worked his way as cabin boy from Baltimore and arrived at Kiel with $30 in his pocket. Then he came by train to Kottbus. Arrangements are being made locally for the boy's return to the United States after his wish has been gratified.

'Let 'er Go Benny' Is Secretly Married

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 17 (AP)—The secret marriage of Lieut. Commander Benjamin F. Staud, who as gunnery officer aboard the American destroyer Noa, during the siege of Nanking by Chinese Nationalists two years ago, became known as "Let 'er go, Benny" of the navy, was revealed today.

Lieut. Commander Staud and his bride, the former Miss Janet Powell, daughter of the late Clarke G. Powell, of Omaha, were married at Council Bluffs, Ia., yesterday, friends said.

Committee to Study Brookline Budget

Judge Philip S. Parker, Brookline town moderator, announced the membership of the advisory committee which will report on town appropriations at the town meeting in March. Judge Parker will be chairman and Fred B. Richardson, town clerk, will be secretary.

Malden Boy, Beaten at Home, Seeks Hospital Likes It Better

John Solulewski, nine, of Stearns st., Malden, who sometime ago was taken to the Malden Hospital for treatment after his father had given him a beating, liked the institution so well that he tried to return to it today.

The boy was discovered wading through the snow on Savin st., Malden, by Patrolman Fleming, whom he informed he was bound for the hospital because he liked it. It was then revealed that John was absent from school yesterday and failed to return home last night.

The father, when arraigned in court following the beating, claimed his son was an habitual truant. At the time Solulewski was given a suspended sentence. Police turne dthe boy over to him today.

THAW WILL END COLDEST SNAP OF WINTER

The January thaw, which the Government meteorologists have consistently refused to recognize, was at hand today and expected to change to rain a lightly falling snow, which began early this morning.

Two warm waves, totally unexpected, have converged in the West and are sweeping across the country, bringing with them rising temperatures ranging from 2 degrees minimum, at Dodge City, Ia., to 34 degrees, at Pittsburgh and Cleveland. Rain was falling in the Ohio valley and lower lake region.

The cold wave has disappeared from New England and is centered in Nova Scotia, with a consequent rise in temperature in Boston of 9 degrees, 26 in Northfield, Vt., and 24 in Concord, N. H.

While the weather forecasters were looking for a resumption of frigid weather, warm waves leaped into prominence in Colorado and the Canadian Northwest, and joining east of the Rockies began their cross-country trek. As a result there is no cold weather on the United States map.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Snow turning to rain this afternoon; rain and warmer tonight and Friday; moderate winds shifting to east and south and increasing.

TRAIN HITS 7, KILLS 3

Poast Town, O., Jan. 17 (AP)—Three members of a Baltimore & Ohio section crew were killed instantly and four injured seriously, some probably fatally, here today when they were struck by a freight locomotive soon after starting the day's work.

All the men lived at Middletown, near here, where the injured were taken.

The accident occurred when the section crew stopped to watch a northbound train pass on the double tracks where they were at work, failing to notice a south-bound freight approaching.

FEAR SCHOONER LOST ON WAY TO GLOUCESTER

Curling, N. F., Jan. 17 (AP)—Much concern was felt today for the safety of the schooner Madeline Adams, which sailed from the Bay of Islands on Dec. 26 with a cargo of herring for Gloucester, Mass.

She has not been reported since, and other vessels which sailed at the same time reached port with their sails blown away and their deck cargoes gone.

O'Connell Feted by Friends at Dinner

KELLOGG PACT IS SIGNED BY COOLIDGE

cabinet and a large representation from the Senate. There were no speeches.

The President used the gold pen that was presented to Secretary Kellogg by the City of Havre, France, when the secretary went abroad last summer to sign the treaty in Paris. The ceremony took place in the east room of the White House.

Two copies of the instrument received the President's signature and then each was signed by Secretary Kellogg, who sat beside the President at the historic old desk which served as a cabinet table from the time of President John Adams to the administration of Theodore Roosevelt.

DAWES AT RIGHT HAND.

Vice-President Dawes sat at the President's right and Secretary Kellogg at his left, while grouped behind them were the members of the Senate. They included Moses of New Hampshire and Bingham of Connecticut, two leaders of a group which demanded that some sort of interpretation of the treaty accompany its ratification.

Under the blinding glare of camera lights and accompanied by the grinding of motion picture machines, the President entered the east room a few minutes after 10 o'clock. He was accompanied by his military and naval aides and Vice-President Dawes.

MRS. COOLIDGE PRESENT

Behind them the Cabinet filed in, two by two. Taking his place at the desk the President was handed the pen by Sidney Y. Smith, of the Treaty Division of the State Department, in whose custody were also the instruments of ratification. The President signed the first copy and then handed it and the pen to Secretary Kellogg for his signature. The same procedure was followed with the second copy

Meanwhile Mrs. Coolidge stood smiling in the doorway and her favorite dog, Tiny Tim, a reddish brown chow, scampered across the floor to a point underneath the table, from which he was coaxed by a secret service agent.

The next formal step will be the notification to the fourteen other original signatory powers that the United States has ratified the treaty. After the other signatories have ratified, the official treaty will be signed by each and deposited in the State Department here, and in addition exchange copies of the pact bearing the seals and signatures of each of the fifteen countries will be prepared, one for the archives of each nation.

Seven nations now have virtually completed their acceptance of the treaty. They are Afghanistan, Austria, Dominican Republic, Ethopia, Soviet Russia, Siam and the United States. Siam's adherence was deposited yesterday by the Siamese minister.

Seven other countries have ratified the treaty, documents of ratification being enroute here from Albania, Cuba, Liberia, Panama, Haiti, Paraguay and Portugal.

Japs Congratulate U. S. on Ratification

Tokyo, Jan. 17 (AP)—General satisfaction was expressed by Japanese newspapers today at the United States Senate's ratification of the Kellogg-Briand pact renouncing war.

The Asahi and the Nichi-Nichi editorially congratulated the United States on passing the treaty without modification or reservations. They emphasized that harm to world peace and also to America's reputation would have resulted if the treaty had failed of ratification.

"Promises Change in History of World"

London, Jan. 17 (AP)—Commenting on ratification of the Kellogg pact, the Times said today the "achievement associated with Kellogg's name may be regarded as registering and promising a definite change in the course of the world's history."

Regarding the interpretations, the paper said: "It would be anything but reinforcement of security if the new dispensation appeared to challenge such an institution as the Monroe doctrine or any arrangement similarly vital to a signatory state."

The Daily Telegraph said "the limits of the obligations for the United States under the pact, including the Monroe doctrine, are beyond question prudently drawn."

Briand Puts in Bill to Ratify Treaty

Paris, Jan. 17 (AP)—Foreign Minister Briand announced today that he had formally introduced a bill ratifying the Briand-Kellogg renunciation of war pact in the Chamber of Deputies.

Whitcher Funeral to Be in Manchester

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 17 Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. Friday in this city for George A. Whitcher of Riverdale, formerly of Medford, Mass., who until his retirement, was one of the oldest engineers on the Boston & Maine railroad. Manchester Masonic orders will have charge of the services.

He was one of the oldest members of King Solomon lodge, A. F. A. M., Somerville, Mass., and a member of Mystic Royal Arch chapter, Medford, and of Boston Commandery, Knights Templars.

During his 40 years of service he was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. The body will be taken to Mt. Auburn cemetery, Cambridge for cremation.

Nominated for Treasury Post

Washington, Jan. 17—Edward E. Jones of Hartford, Pa., was nominated by President Coolidge to be register of the treasury. He will succeed Walter O. Woods, who has been named treasurer of the United States.

LOWMAN SEES BENEFITS OF PROHIBITION

Washington, Jan. 17 (Universal)—Prohibition, on its ninth birthday, can boast extensive industrial and social improvement for the United States, but its future is at the mercy of American citizenry, both in support and actual enforcement, according to Seymour Lowman, assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in charge of prohibition.

Lowman in a statement said that present improved systems of the prohibition force virtually have wiped out any abuse of medicinal permits for liquor, the manufacture of beer and the diversion of sacramental wines; that pending agreements with Canada promise to cut border smuggling to a minimum, and that the diversion of industrial alcohol already has been stemmed by limiting production to the actual amount consumed for industrial purposes.

The principal remaining source, according to Lowman, is the illegal distiller, and the prohibition force has so forced his hand that the large plants are giving way to small ones.

Figures for the past year show that the stills seized are constantly growing smaller, though more numerous, and the burden of enforcement now obviously lies with local police forces.

"After all, Uncle Sam cannot be made the village policeman," he said

JURY PROBE OF SPORTS SLUSH FUND LOOMS

be questioned at length by Warner today, both as an official of the league and as a contributor to the Sunday sports fund. Ray Klomparens of Boston, listed as a contributor to the extent of $250, was also expected to be questioned.

A statement regarding the possibility of more public hearings by the Finance Commission was expected at the regular weekly session of that body today. Judge Emil E. Fuchs president and manager of the Boston Braves, in the event that the commission decides not to hold further hearings, probably will be questioned in private by Chairman Dowling and his associates in regard to several entries on the Braves' books just examined by the commission.

Charles F. Adams, vice-president of the Braves, is expected to return from Bermuda to confer with the attorney-general regarding his contribution of $1000 to the Recreation League. This will leave only one other important person to be questioned by the attorney-general and his assistant, Gerald J Callahan. This man is O. J. Brusse of Brookline, secretary of the Recreation League and regarded as the "key man" in the situation. It was Brusse who filed the list of contributors with the secretary of State. He is now in Lansing, Mich., with his wife, and is expected to return to Boston the first of next week.

His importance in the present investigation by the attorney-general lies in the fact that as treasurer of the Recreation League and as the man who filed the returns at the State House the law puts the correctness of the returns squarely up to him and he must answer personally to any discrepancies that might be found.

Judge Fuchs, whose charges led to the investigation of the baseball scandal, spent more than two hours with Warner and Callahan. He was accompanied by his personal counsel, Samuel Hoar. Neither would comment on what occurred at the interview. Warner stated that he had finished questioning Fuchs for the present, although he might recall the judge at a later date. A stenographic report of the conference was taken.

The special City Council committee of five appointed two weeks ago by Councilor Dowling acting president, to draw up a suitable license for Sunday professional baseball, is expected to bring in its report at next Monday's meeting.

It is possible that a license may be granted the Red Sox at that meeting, their application having been filed last Monday. A license for the Braves will be held up, it is reported on good authority, pending the outcome of the attorney general's investigation and the issuance of the Finance Commission report.

FORD AND JAPS ARE RIVALS IN RUBBER

Para, Brazil, Jan. 17 (AP)—There is rivalry between the Ford rubber enterprise and that of the Japanese on the banks of the Tapajo river in getting land under cultivation. Old timers in the Amazon valley are placing their wagers on the Nipponese, according to word drifting down here from the upper stretches of the river.

The Ford base is now at Santarem, at the mouth of the Tapajos, and here the vessels loaded in Detroit have stayed. They arrived too late in the season to navigate the Tapajos and the cargo is being lightered and towed the more than hundred miles up the river.

Veterans on the river praise the Ford hospital ship and its equipment, but believe the task of fighting malaria in the Ford area will be stupendous, for there were 350 deaths from the fever in two months about six months ago.

It is reported here that special cranes brought in Ford bottoms to discharge cargoes were found below all the freight on the ships and so discharge has been delayed owing to the necessity of using lighter equipment.

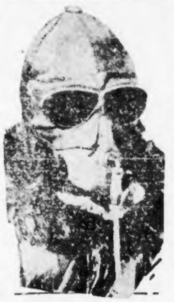
Work of clearing land is progressing and one thousand houses for laborers will be constructed.

Lindy Fog Bound On New York Hop

Indianapolis, Jan. 17 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, returning to New York from St. Louis, was fog bound today.

He reached here late yesterday from St. Louis in his Curtiss-Robin plane. He said this morning he planned to continue to New York as soon as weather conditions permitted.

No Spring Hat!



CAN GIRLS COPY IT? This is the latest type helmet for aviators who go past where the breathing's good. Lieut. J. A Macready is wearing it. Note the tube to the oxygen tank. It is doubtful if this style will also be copied as a new millinery creation.

235-lb. Man Claims Wife, 95 lbs., Cruel

Chicago, Jan. 17 (INS)—Policeman John Belskey weighs 235 pounds. He's known as a "terror" to thugs, bootleggers and such. Not only that he holds the policeman boxing championship of the North Side.

Today he filed suit for divorce against Mrs. Anna Belskey, who weighs 95 pounds, claiming that she was cruel to him.

NIXON GIVEN FAREWELL DINNER

Business associates, advertising men and friends from various Boston circles joined last night in a goodby dinner to Kenneth J. Nixon, advertising manager for the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Mr. Nixon is about to leave his post here for a similar position with the Washington Herald at Washington.

The banquet was held at the Copley Sq. Hotel. Leading Boston theaters and night clubs sent entertainers.

Among them were Miss Ethel Norris of the "Rain or Shine" company; the Misses Lovell and Stone, singers; Harry Taylor and Scotty Holmes, from the Mah Jong; Pierce and Banks, dancers from the Cotton Club, New York, and the team of Jarvis and Jay, also from New York.

On the list of speakers were Walter L. Thomas, advertising director of the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser; J. F. Cullen, business manager; Malcolm S. Lunn, circulation manager; Edward R. Mahoney, managing editor of the Boston Evening American; James W. Reardon, associate editor; John K. Gowan, managing editor of the Boston Sunday Advertiser, and James Welch, national advertising manager.

Hall-Mills Murder Prosecutor Is Dead

East Orange, N. J., Jan. 17 (INS)—Wilbur A. Mott, former prosecutor of Essex County and special prosecutor in the first HallMills murder investigation, is dead today at his home, of pneumonia.

Mott was placed in charge of the original Hall-Mills investigation in October, 1922. He presented his findings to the grand jury, which failed to return indictments.

Plan Ruman Loan

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 17 (AP)—Advices from Paris today said Michael Popovich, Rumanian minister of finance, had completed arrangements for a loan to Rumania.

Reading Marathon On in Hub U. S. Court Suit

An unheralded reading Marathon, now in its tenth day, is in progress at the federal building with two participants still going strong and able to hold the attention of a small gallery.

They are Edward O. Proctor and Edward C. Park, attached to the office of Atty. Sherman L. Whipple, by whom they have been impressed into the duty of reading depositions of absent witnesses in the suit brought by the Story Parchment Company of New Jersey against the Patterson Parchment Company of Boston.

Alternately assuming the role of witness and examining counsel, the two attorneys finished the fifth volume of depositions today, completing 1880 pages of testimony containing more than 500,000 words.

The suit brought by Atty. Whipple alleges a conspiracy in restraint of trade, effected by the Patterson concern against the Story company in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

The case is being heard by Judge Elisha H. Brewster and a jury.

3 KILLED BY GAS IN BROOKLYN

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—A husband and wife and their daughter were killed today by coal gas and 15 other persons were overcome in a 23-family apartment house in Brooklyn.

Milkmen in the early morning discovered the presence of the gas, rising from the furnace room.

Fourteen of those overcome were quickly revived, but Solomon Blake, 28, was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. His father, Louis, 60; his mother, Yetta, 55, and his sister, May, 22, were pronounced dead.

BOARDER HELD IN DEATH CASE

Mrs. Anna Price, widow and owner of considerable real estate in Cambridge and Brockton, was found dead today in her apartment at No. 113 Harvard st., Cambridge, and police are holding a boarder for questioning in connection with her death.

The man held by the police told Captain J. J. Canney that he assisted Mrs. Price to her room shortly after midnight. Four hours later he found her dead. He notified a neighbor who, in turn, notified the police.

SALLY HEADS IN LONDON

ON WAY TO CONFERENCE

Catherine Booth, oldest daughter of Gen. Bramwell Booth, and Commrs. J. B. Laurie and T. Kitching, snapped by an Associated Press cameraman at London "Sally" conference. Gen. Booth has just been ousted as leader of the organization.

SALLIES READY TO ELECT NEW COMMANDER

London, Jan. 17 (AP)—The choice of a new head of the Salvation Army by the high council which last night deposed Gen. Bramwell Booth, adjudging him in an unfit condition to continue his leadership, is now the next important development in affairs of the Salvation Army which have evolved so dramatically the past two weeks.

Commissioner Hay, as president of the council, issued a formal notice of the council's decision by a vote of 55 to 8 to relieve the general of his command, but gave no intimation of what further steps would be taken.

One of the army officials at the hotel where Evangeline Booth, American commander and leader of the "reform" movement, is making her headquarters, said, however, that the council would meet tomorrow to elect "a new commander and to take legal steps, if necessary, to obtain possession of the army's huge property now vested personally in Bramwell Booth's hands.

During the morning a notice signed by the Salvation Army solicitors was displayed outside of international headquarters.

Now that the high council has come to its decision regarding Gen. Booth, interest is centering on what the general's next move will be. As quoted today by the Daily Mail the general apparently will carry the fight for command to the courts. The newspaper quoted him as saying:

"I haven't much money but I will spend what I have in defending my position."

Quake 3400 Miles South of Capital

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—A sharp earthquake was recorded on the Georgetown University seismograph beginning at 6:52 a. m. and reaching its maximum intensity at 7:04 o'clock.

Director Tondorf estimated it was 3400 miles from Washington in a southerly direction.

2 SUSPECTS IN HOLDUP WILL FACE GRILL

Two South End youths, captured today as they were dividing alleged loot of $8 from a South Boston holdup, are to be grilled by police in an attempt to clear up several recent robbery attempts, including one defeated yesterday by Messenger George H. Gross of the State St. Trust Co.

The youths were held in $5,000 each by Judge William J. Day of South Boston court, after they pleaded not guilty to robbery while armed.

They gave their names as Coleman McCormick, 21, of Dover st., and Edward Nice, 17, of E. Dedham st., both South End.

They were arrested soon after Michael Cowlanz, a C st., South Boston, grocer reported being robbed by two gunmen.

Police, headed by Sergt. John Blake, scoured the district in a police car, picking up McCormick and Nice. Police claim McCormick had a revolver. He at first gave his name as Charles Russell.

Hold Alleged Hit-and-Run Driver

Frederick Fields of 1 Rutland st., South End, arrested in the fatal hit-and-run accident, in which Ralph Anthony, 50, of the Hotel Touraine was the victim the morning of Dec. 21, was held for the Grand Jury in $2000 bonds, following arraignment before Judge Hayden.

The defendant was charged with manslaughter, driving so as to endanger, going away from the scene of an accident without making his identity known, and failing to comply with the compulsory insurance law.

IF YOU HAVE AN ACHE OR PAIN LET THIS EXPERT HELP YOU

HE LOOKS AFTER THE TWENTY-SIX ATHLETES OF WASHINGTON BALL TEAM

For More Than Twenty Years He's Been Relieving Lame Back, Sore, Stiff Muscles, Swollen Joints, Sprains, Achy Feet, Rheumatic Pains and Kindred Ills of Big League Athletes

Greatest Living Expert On Keeping Athletes In Perfect Condition

TRY HIS METHOD ON YOUR ACHES OR PAINS

We want to introduce the reader to Mike Martin, who probably knows more about keeping a person in fighting condition than anyone else living. For over 20 years at various universities and with the New York Yankees, Cincinnati Reds and now as trainer of the Washington Ball Club, Mike Martin has won fame as a lightning quick fixer of sprains, pains, aches, etc.

Mike Martin is a genius. He can take men claimed to be too old, stiff or rheumatic to play baseball at all and make them as frisky, vigorous, supple and quick as a boy. Mike Martin knows his business—ask Herb Pennock, Ty Cobb, Geo. Sisler, Lea Meadows, Ray Kremer, Walter Johnson, Alexander, Chief Bender, Nick Altrock, or any of the big stars of today, or the past few years. They know. Ask the trainer of any of the Big League Ball Clubs.

HE CAN HELP YOU

Mike Martin has had a little folder printed, telling how he quickly banishes stiff, swollen joints, achy lame backs or feet, various rheumatic pains, etc. He has arranged with leading druggists here in town to sell you generous sized bottles of the liniment these great "Stars" use. He has made it a long time for his own use. Athletes on other teams kept Mike busy making his "Mike Martin Liniment." Trainers, coaches, colleges, big league teams all over the country buy it by the gallon from Mike. Now, Mike Martin, swamped with demands for this liniment and directions how to use it, has employed a big sales company to distribute it and they are supplying all the druggists—Mike still superintends the making of it—during odd times between acting as trainer of the American League Washington Ball Club.

MIKE MARTIN, Trainer Washington Baseball Club

ASK THE DRUGGIST

If your druggist hasn't secured a few bottles of Mike Martin's Liniment, ask him to get it. There is no other liniment like it. It works like greased lightning even in cases of chronic lameness, swellings, stiffness or pains, yet is so mild it can be used on a baby's skin. Mike Martin's Liniment is unquestionably the most effective, quick, sure, up-to-date remedy made. Big league players couldn't afford to fool with weaker, slower remedies. No one else should.

If your druggist has some remedy of his own he prefers to sell—Just write Mike Martin, Trainer, Ball Park, Washington, D. C. 65c for folder and two ounce bottle of liniment or $1 for large four ounce bottle.

'Gloom' an Optimist Handwriting Shows

By LOUISE RICE
Noted Graphologist

"DEAR MISS RICE:

"I am a twin who happens to be struggling in the great show world of today. Although born 36 hours later than my other half, we are very much alike except in some things. I am anxious and worried; she smiles and expects better things. Which of us is looking at life right?

"Virginia, Weston."

According to your handwriting, which tells me that you are really rather of an optimistic temperament, I do not see any reason why you should be considered an extremist in gloom. Your writing slants happily upward and your pressure is vigorous and your letters well made. I think that your description of yourself is not very accurate.

NOT TRUE TWINS

The fact of the matter is that you are not true twins at all. There are two kinds of twins—those born within a few minutes of each other and those born hours apart. Thirty-six hours is a very long time, indeed, to intervene between the birth of what, for want of the proper description, we call twins.

One of the strange tests of true twins is that their writings are so alike that it is hard to tell them apart. True twins also have finger prints which are only very slightly varied, and this is very interesting, since there is not such a thing as a real duplicate fingerprint in the world. The approximation of the fingerprints of each other which true twins show is the nearest thing to a duplicate that we get. I'm telling you all this to show you that you and your sister are not twins, and to urge you to cease making a comparison between your two different temperaments.

Agree each to be as you are.

HOW TO DO IT

Writing which is slowly made can usually be estimated correctly. Nearly all those who write slowly either make almost childish letters or they use rather involved formations. The illustration gives us involved formations, which obviously could not be produced swiftly.

The slow and laborious production of a piece of writing shows us always a mind, which is earnest and accurate and careful—usually somewhat too "fussy" over details and rather too insistent on trifles.

It goes without saying that the rapid writer and the very slow writer are not very easily attuned to each other and that they work and play so differently that harmony between the two is impossible to produce.

KEEP STOMACH YOUNG!

Eat What You Want

When the food you eat goes into your acid-soaked stomach, it sours and can't digest, makes foul gas and sour bile. The blood takes these poisonous acids and carries them through the body. Naturally it makes you miserable and despondent, because your system is not nourished—you lose weight.

Pape's Diapepsin dissolves the acids and sweetens the stomach. It digests the food; no more sour bile is taken up by the blood. Your appetite is like a youngster's again, and gradually you get back your health, flesh and energy.

Chew a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin after meals. It tastes good, and relieves the misery of indigestion in five minutes. It will keep your stomach young and vigorous so you can eat anything you want without being afraid of the consequences.

LEGIONNAIRES DINE SATURDAY

Boston will play host to legionnaires and their women-folks from all over Massachusetts who will trek to Boston on Saturday to attend the annual State department get-together dinner at the Hotel Statler.

The legionnaires have established a yearly record for the greatest attendance at any one great dinner. Last year over 2500 ex-service men and their wives attended the occasion. This year all indications point to an even greater gathering at the Statler.

An elaboratae program has been arranged by Vice-Commander Edward F. Flynn, chairman, and his committee. Judge Kenesaw M. Landis will be the main speaker of the evening, sharing honors with National Commander Paul V. McNutt of The American Legion, who incidentally is an honor man from Harvard.

Major-Gen. Edward L. Logan will present the past commander's jewel to Past Commander John W. Reth. Dr. Wm. H. Griffin, department Commander of the Massachusetts American Legion will preside. Miss Adelaide Fitzgerald, president of the Massachusetts Legion Auxiliary, will be one of the speakers.

Guests include Governor Frank G. Allen, Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols, Col. Coupal, the President's physician and a long list of other celebrities.

Prize cups will be awarded for excellency in their respective classes to the Haverhill Post Fife and Drum Corps and the Weymouth Post Legion Band.

To Grant American Vises in Europe

A cable today by the North German Lloyd in Boston announced the reopening by American Consulates in Europe of applications for American vises for those desiring to come to this country permanently.

The news is of interest to those who are trying to bring friends and relatives to the United States, as the reopening of these lists means that long-sought vises are again being granted.

DRY LAW REPEAL PASSED 34 OF 36 DISTRICTS

Tabulation by the Constitutional Liberty League of the referendum vote taken in November on repeal of the 18th Amendment, today disclosed that the question was not only carried in 34 of the 36 Senatorial districts where it appeared on the ballot, but in 15 of the 16 Congressional districts as well.

In the one Congressional district lost, the sixth, the "dry" majority was a scant 57 votes.

Letters apprising the Congressmen of the result of the tabulation were forwarded today to Washington by the league. Already the organization has filed a resolution with the State Senate asking a petition to Congress to bring about the repeal of the amendment.

The referendum vote in the Senatorial districts on repeal was: "Yes," 707,352; "No," 422,655.

Pays $300 Rum Fines

Charged with transporting liquor underneath a wagon, Harold A. Purdy of Medford in Malden court today was fined $100. For keeping and exposing liquor in his home in Sables ct., Medford, he was fined $200 and given a twolmonths' suspended sentence. He paid the fines.

ELECTRIC LIGHT CO. IS SCORED AT HEARING

The business methods of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston were scored by David Short of Roxbury today at a hearing before the Public Utility Commission.

The complainant declared that the company had shut off his service on December 28 for non-palment of a bill totalling $1.80. He admitted the bill was due, that it was paid on Saturday but that service was not restored until Monday, and then only after payment of a deposit for the meter. He further admitted that the bill had been running three or four months.

Counsel for thee company gave the record of shutoff notices sent to Short of 36 Gaston st., Roxbury, for non-payments starting March 14, 1927, up to the December 28 episode. There were 14 notices in all.

"That's the story," said Attorney Frederick M. Ives, company counsel. "I have no apologies to make on the part of the company. He had plenty of notices. A very bad record."

The commission took the case under advisement.

Former Water Boy May Be Afghanistan King

London, Jan. 17 (AP)—Authoritative reports received in London today indicate that Bacha Sakao, rebel water boy of the Afghan wilds may soon be seated upon the throne which King Amanullah has vacated.

Bacha Sakao is merely a nickname meaning water carrier. His real name is Habibullah Khan which is the same name as Amanullah's father, who was assassinated in 1919, although there is no relationship between the two families.

British official advices now state that all Kabul, except the Arg, or citadel in the center of the city, is in the hands of Bacha Sakao. King Inayatullah, who succeeded his brother, Amanullah, is reported from Moscow to have also abdicated.

Kabul is reported comparatively quiet and the foreign legations are safe. Amanullah and Queen Souriya are safe at Kandahar.

Dorothy Spared Pain of Attending Funeral

Although absent, little Dorothy Ruth, nine-year-old adopted daughter of "Babe" and Mrs. Helen Ruth, was the center of interest today at the funeral of her foster mother in South Boston.

The little girl had been expected at the funeral services, it was evident, for there were many whispers of inquiry by newly-arrived mourners at the Woodford home in West Fourth st.

But Dorothy was not subjected to the pain of gazing upon her foster mother's still face.

The girl has been told that her mother has "gone away" for all time, but the full significance of her loss has not yet been felt by her.

Today while the funeral prayers were being recited before the casket in the home of Mrs. Ruth's mother—and then, later, while the funeral cars were moving through the storm and the body was being placed in its grave, little Dorothy played with her youthful companions in the snow that covers the hills about the Convent of the Assumption in Wellesley.

Whether Dorothy, a pupil at the academy for the past three years, will be taken back to New York by "Babe" Ruth, or whether she will be allowed to remain at the convent school was still problematical today.

OIL CONTEST IS WON BY YOUNG ROCKEFELLER

New York, Jan 17 (AP)—The Herald Tribune says today that, according to one of New York's outstanding petroleum authorities, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has won his fight to oust Col. Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana.

It is quite likely, the paper says, Mr. Rockefeller would announce that he had more than 51 per cent of the voting proxies some time before the meeting of the stockholders.

At present it is understood that Mr. Rockefeller is assured of proxies for 35 to 40 per cent of the outstanding 9,231,540 shares of $25 par value stock, held in estates, trust funds and banks, as well as by foundations.

A run-up of Standard Oil of Indiana on the curb market gave rise to rumors in Wall street that Rockefeller had cabled orders from Naples to "buy at the market." This was denied at the Rockefeller offices.

While Rockefeller will have the large blocks of stocks held by such interests as the Harkness, Flagler and Rogers estates and of other Standard Oil companies in which he is the dominating figure, Col. Stewart is expected to rally the stock held by employes.

Stewart Interests Not Trying to Buy Up Stock

New York, Jan. 17—The bitterest factional fight in American industrial history, the fight to oust Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of the Standard Oil of Indiana board, will not be waged, and is not being waged, in the stock market.

International News Service learned from unimpeachable sources today that the Stewart interests are not buying a share of Indiana stock in the open market. Despite the vigorous ballyhoo that is being raised in parts of Wall Street, and on which Standard of Indiana has jumped about 12 points in the last two or three days, Stewart is holding aloof from the market, and standing pat, with his friends and supporters, on their holdings of stock, which they believe are sufficient to swing the vote to Stewart on March 7.

NOTED CHEF IN LEE KITCHEN

The Martha Lee Kitchen at 5 Winthrop sq. was packed to capacity yesterday, when New England housewives flocked to take advantage of a lesson in cookery given by K. Camille Den Dooven, former chef to Albert, King of the Belgians.

Den Dooven has been connected abroad with such hotels as the Ritz Carlton in London and in this country with the Hotel Vanderbilt in New York and the New Ocean House in Swampscott. He has just gathered the fruit of his 26 years of culinary experience in three volumes "The Master Baker and His Work," "The Hotel and Restaurant Dessert Book," and the "Home Cook Book," three unusually valuable volumes.

His lesson in the Martha Lee Kitchen yesterday was interrupted by frequent bursts of applause as the women saw unfolded the scientific secrets of such simple seeming recipes that included Danish pastry and home candy making.

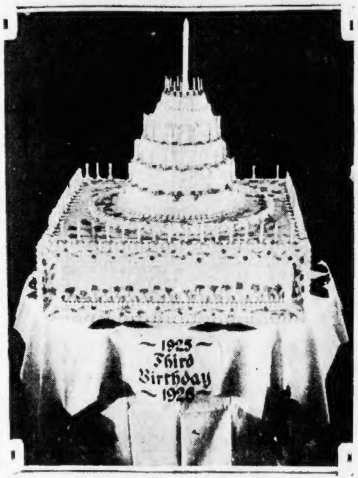
Den Dooven has promised to come again in March for another lesson.

Den Dooven's recipes will all appear in this paper on the magazine page next Saturday.

Scratch Your Head! It's a Work of Art!

London, Jan. 17 (AP)—What do most people do when viewing a fine painting or other work of art? They scratch their heads. An observer at the National gallery so noticed. All ages and sexes do so. One expert explanation is that emotion causes a tingling of the blood followed by a sub-conscious scratch.

LEE SPEAKER MADE THIS



A HUGE BIRTHDAY CAKE

This big birthday cake, which stood five feet high and weighed 275 pounds, was made in Hollywood, Fla., recently by K. Camille Den Dooven, former chef to King Albert of Belgium and who gave a lesson in the Martha Lee Kitchen yesterday. In the cake were 500 eggs, 50 pounds of flour, 50 pounds of sugar and 50 pounds of butter.

Educator Tells of Work in South

INDUSTRIAL education was given as the only solution for the national "negro problem" by Miss Rossa Cooley, head of the Penn school on St. Helena's Island, South Carolina, speaking to the Woman's City Club members as their luncheon guest.

Miss Frances Curtis

This distinguished educator was introduced by her hostess, Miss Frances Curtis, president of the club with whom she will remain until Sunday.

"When you deplore the large migrations of the rural negroes to our large cities with increased crime, juvenile delinquency, tuberculosis, and other diseases, remember that the boll weevil is largely responsible," said Miss Cooley, who went on to describe the extreme poverty that drove bankrupt uneducated negro farmers from their cotton fields.

Penn school, center of the community life of the island, solved this economic problem for its pupils (men, women and children are all pupils in some of its departments) by replacing cotton crops with corn, potatoes, rice, sugarcane and real gardens. Prize turkeys and hogs are being raised now.

The 5000 negroes who inhabit St. Helena's island are grandchildren of the last slaves brought over from Africa, the first slaves to be freed and first landowners after their masters fled leaving them in possession during the Civil War. Only 30 whites live there.

An idea of their progressive spirit was gained by the fact that this school won the first, second and third prizes in successive years, for better homes in a nationwide contest. They are now working for first prize again, using their own homes to demonstrate the model home.

Women's clubs are the delight of women of all ages on the island, Miss Cooley said. These are organized for every sort of self and home improvement from better teeth to model baby clothes.

"But there is one thing we must keep hands off—and that is the negro's religion," she concluded. "It springs from a heritage which embodies some quality that must not be lost to American life. It must be left to develop as the individual develops, just as their art and music should be left for them to develop without interference."

This remarkable school, the oldest for negroes in the country, was founded in 1862 and is known to negroes everywhere as "The Light on the Island." It is supported entirely by philanthropy.

AGNES FRANEY

Climbing

First, Ziegfeld picked her for his "Follies." Next, she was chosen for "Rio Rita" and now Warner Brothers will present her in the movies. Dainty Agnes Franey is climbing, helped by clever dancing and seldom equalled beauty.

Miss Franey says: "I don't believe in overlooking anything which helps add to your attractiveness. I am most particular about my hair and so many friends compliment me on its softness and lustre that I am sure my method of caring for it is right. Nearly all the girls I know here in New York are using it, now. It is so easy. All we do is put a little Danderine on our brushes each time we dress our hair. It makes my hair easy to dress and holds it in place wonderfully. It has gotten rid of my dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so comfortable, that I don't shampoo half as often as I did before. And best of all, it gives my hair a softer, more silky and lustrous appearance than anything I've ever found."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color, makes it fairly sparkle! Dandruff usually disappears when you use Danderine. Waves, "set" with it, stay in longer. It's delicately fragranced; isn't oily; doesn't show. It's economical. The 35c bottles will last several weeks. All drug stores recommend and guarantee it.

BIG WELCOME IN MIAMI MONDAY FOR HOOVER

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—President-elect Hoover will leave here Monday at 10:30 a. m. for Miami Beach, Fla., where he will be the guest of J. C. Penny on Belle Isle for a little more than a month.

Mr. Hoover expects to arrive at Miami at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday to participate in a monster all-state demonstration which is being arranged in honor of his visit to the state which with three others in the once solidly Democratic South gave him a majority last November.

The Governor and other high state officials will be on hand to welcome the President-elect, and it is planned also to have all of the counties in the state represented. After the welcoming in Miami the President-elect and his party will proceed in escorted motor cars to Miami Beach and thence across a causeway to the Penny estate.

The present plans of the President-elect are to return here about two weeks before the date of his inauguration in order to continue the conferences with Republican leaders which he has been holding for the past 10 days and which will be continued through tomorrow and Saturday.

Asks All Churches to Boom Anti-War Pact

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Churches throughout the country have been asked by the Federal Council of Churches to observe next Sunday the ratification of the peace pact.

The request telegraphed to Federal Council Secretaries said the peace pact was regarded as a highly significant step toward enduring world peace.

"Let church bells ring, songs be sung, prayers of thanksgiving offered and petitions for help from God that our nation may ever follow the spirit and meaning of the pact," the message concluded.

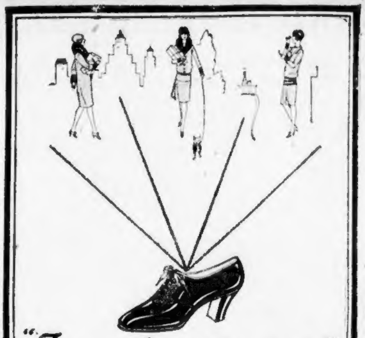
Odd Fellows to Hold 'Wildey Night'

The annual celebration of "Wildey Night" at New England Lodge No. 4, I. O. O. F., East Cambridge, will be held tomorrow night at the lodge rooms, 215 Cambridge st.

In addition to an address by District Deputy Grand Master Frederick J. Price, there will be an entertainment.

Woman Made Sleuth

Newark, N. J., Jan. 17 (INS)—Miss Mabel Irene Gilman, a former social service worker, today becomes New Jersey's first woman detective. She was named to the post by Prosecutor J. L. Smith of Essex County.



"I'm too busy for feet!"

So many men and women who are caught up in the pleasantly mad whirl of modern life feel just that. They are too active, too much interested in things to do, and places to go, to have time to devote to naggingly painful feet. And so, they wear Cowards.

For Coward Shoes are tuned to the spirit of the day. They are attractive, they are smart, they have individuality—but they have uncompromising comfort right through. Comfort across the toes, and under the arch, and around the heel. Comfort and good looks in equal parts are designed right into every pair which bears the name of Coward.

The shoe illustrated above can be had in patent leather, brown kid or black kid—all are lizard trimmed and have leather Cuban spike heels.

THE SAFETY OF YOUR HOME IS MEASURED BY THE SAFETY OF YOUR TOWN

Your own carefulness in safeguarding home, factory, store or other property against fire is a solemn duty, but it is not enough.

No matter how careful you may be, a bad condition in adjacent or even distant property may undo all your own efforts. Cities must be made safer. It is a civic as well as a personal obligation.

Here is where the Stock Fire Insurance companies—constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters—have rendered a conspicuous service. Their skilled engineers work unceasingly to make American cities safer.

These engineers have systematically surveyed more than 400 cities, many of them several times. The improvements in water supply, fire alarm systems, fire departments and safety ordinances made by the several municipalities upon the recommendations of these engineers have been of great public benefit and a decided factor in the consistent rate reductions shown by Stock Fire Insurance.

New hazards, growing out of new inventions and processes, call for prompt engineering treatment. These engineers are always on the alert to provide the necessary measures.

This service is free to all cities, as well as to individual property owners, architects, contractors and builders through the National Board or the territorial board or Bureau of the Stock Fire Insurance Companies. Your own Insurance agent can give you information regarding this service. Inquiries are invited.

BACHELORS' BALL SCHEDULED FOR FEB. 15, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

PROBABLY IN ALL THE COLOR BOSTONIANS OF THE UPPER stratas brush broadly across the social picture there's no single event brighter tinted than the Bachelors' Ball. The town's young eligibles are the hosts. It's very smart and very jolly and most exclusive. Debutantes long ardently to receive a card for it. Smart young matrons take on an unusual early morning sparkle if on the breakfast tray there lies a Bachelors' Ball invitation. Girls of assured place among the aristocrats adore being asked—since appearance at the ball is a cachet all its own.

THE FRIDAY BEFORE WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY IS THE date continuously dedicated to the Bachelors' Ball by the Bachelors, those smart young men who remain almost [illegible] to Cupid's darts and [illegible] the despair of managing mammas with daughters to place advantageously. Of course, the roster changes a bit from year to year as a [illegible] becomes a benedict. Young Mr. [illegible] Seward, who appeared a year or two ago in the single blessedness state, is now a proud papa.

CURTIS SINGERS DO WELL IN HUB DEBUT

Boston was given its first opportunity to hear the Curtis Quartet [illegible] formed, able and ambitious at Jordan Hall, before an audience of musical distinction.

Considering the personnel [illegible] it was expected that the performance would mark the [illegible] of a serious organization [illegible] classic sphere of quartet playing. The program likewise gave [illegible] evidence [illegible] Haydn quartet in B [illegible] [illegible] Schubert's A major [illegible] quintet [illegible] by [illegible] piano and strings [illegible] the artists [illegible]

Boston [illegible] as soloists [illegible]

The dignified [illegible] refreshing [illegible] of the Haydn quartet were in [illegible] evidence even if the minuet did fail to convince in its too [illegible] and [illegible] performance. [illegible] though gently romantic [illegible] the next number [illegible] and subtle [illegible] tones are imperative. [illegible] have been offered.

The massive and [illegible] minded Brahms, in the [illegible] quintet, gave the performers opportunity to display [illegible] powers in [illegible] style [illegible] Tixing the [illegible] ment of musical expression [illegible] tet was given [illegible] and with precision, though greater effectiveness could have been obtained [illegible] ring finale by [illegible] ning.

"Toto" Cheers Little Shut-ins at Hospital

More than 250 smiling youngsters, inmates of the Massachusetts Hospital School at Canton, forgot their physical ailments at the school when "Toto," featured clown appearing this week at the B. F. Keith Memorial Theater, put on a performance for more than an hour in an entertainment sponsored by both the theater and the Boston Evening American.

The diminutive funmaker amused the children by performing several of his clowny tricks and circus stunts. Other artists also appearing on the Keith bill entertained the boys and girls until it was time to leave so as to be back in Boston in time for the show.

Don't Swallow All Reports of Rip-Snorting Prosperity

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—Optimism [illegible] spread [illegible] prosperity [illegible] among many [illegible] workers, among many [illegible]

B. C. Forbes

[illegible] industries continue [illegible] satisfactory.

Misled into believing that every[illegible] [illegible] a pathetic number of [illegible] fully is today a [illegible]

Legitimately the stock [illegible] Admittedly far more individuals [illegible] paper profits on [illegible] easy has it proved [illegible]

[illegible] clusion that the old-fashioned virtue of hard work, earnest planning, frugal living and saving of money dollar by dollar and week by week are no longer worth practicing except by fools—the smart thing now being to dive headlong into the sea of speculation and be carried by the current to shores paved with gold.

Just how many people are neglecting their daily duties wholly or partly in order to follow closely the stock ticker nobody can estimate [illegible] but the writer has seen enough in brokers' offices in New York and elsewhere to know [illegible].

The [illegible] stocks naturally has created the impression that the nation's prosperity is beyond anything ever known [illegible].

This raises the question in the minds of thoughtful persons: What would be the effect of a decline in stock prices to anywhere near the levels formerly regarded as normal? Would the effect be sentimental only? Or would it cause an immediate curtailment of luxury and other expenditures? Would it hurt business? Would it have a harmful effect upon employment?

The [illegible] reply given by stock [illegible] is that it is sheer nonsense even to think that such a thing could possibly happen. Why, we are now in an entirely new era. America is now the kingpin of nations [illegible] everybody throughout the world is eagerly bidding for American stocks. How, then, can quotations for them do anything but go on rising and rising? [illegible]

Here are sentences from a letter just sent by one New York Stock Exchange firm to all its clients:

"It is our opinion that the market is in an era of nervous uncertainty. That condition—largely a state of mind—will continue with variations during January and February. In the latter part of February will come preparation for income tax payments in March.

"We would advise having a wide margin of safety in accounts now and a fairly liquid condition on or about March 1. Notwithstanding [illegible] national struggle for gold [illegible]

[illegible] Every sensible business man should [illegible].

Meanwhile, although it is happily [illegible] that general conditions throughout this country are thoroughly sound, record-breaking prosperity is not [illegible] of all industries or of all individuals. If you are doing moderately well [illegible] to be satisfied.

Production of Oil for Week Larger

DAILY average gross crude oil production in the United States for the week ended January 12, 1929, was 2,593,650 barrels, as compared with 2,591,050 barrels for preceding week, an increase of 2,600 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute estimates.

The daily average production east of California was 1,871,850 barrels, as compared with 1,876,450 barrels, a decrease of 4600 barrels.

New England Industrial's Dividends Began in 1856

HERE'S an industry operating in New England which began regularly paying dividends back in 1856. For longevity of dividends this concern, the Scovill Mfg. Co., has few rivals. Scovill produces a wide variety of brass, bronze and nickel silver goods. Scovill, incorporated in 1850, has made dividend disbursements ranging from $[illegible] to $153 a share since 1856. In addition there have been stock dividends aggregating more than $16,200,000.

In 1927 the company earned $[illegible] 253,218 or somewhat better than [illegible] per cent on the 855,000 shares of $[illegible] par common stock. Dividends for the year amounted to $[illegible] or $2.85 a share. Earnings for 1928 are not yet available, but interests close to the company estimate they will be better than those reported for 1927. Consequently, dividends of $[illegible]75 a share paid in 1928 will not necessitate any drain on surplus.

Van Buren Manufacturing division, Sturgis, Mich., The [illegible] Co., Newark, N. J., and the Hamilton Beach Mfg. Co., Racine, Wis. Plants include large and modern casting shops, mills for rolling, extrusion, tube making and wire drawing.

Parent plant and subsidiaries produce many thousand articles such as electrical apparatus, soda fountain accessories, brass forgings and castings, clock parts, radio parts, vacuum cleaners, plumbing supplies, pins and thimbles, vanity cases, brass fixtures of all kinds, tokens and medals, and similar products. It is understood that the company received a large order for seven-cent tokens from Interborough Rapid Transit Co. a few months ago.

The company has approximately 5000 employes, and with its subsidiaries is one of the largest brass rolling mills, metal goods and brass manufacturing companies in the world.

The last available balance sheet, that for Dec. 31, 1927, showed company's only funded debt consisted of $77,500 of 5 per cent debenture notes outstanding [illegible] issue of $510,000, due [illegible]. There is no preferred stock outstanding.

This would follow the splendid result for November, which, however, was swelled abnormally by the crediting to that month of about $450,000 increased New York commutation rates accruing from January 1 to November 30, 1928.

December will have the benefit of the increased passenger revenue for the month attributable to the higher rates. Prior to November, [illegible] from these rates [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible]

STREET CARS CALL FOR 229 MILLIONS

Budgets of the electric street railways of the United States indicate that the expenditures for the current year on new equipment and maintenance materials will reach a total of $229,500,000, which compares with actual expenditures in 1928 of $223,730,000, according to the annual statistical number of Electric Railway Journal. The gain over last year will go chiefly into new car purchases.

Awakening of the railways to the need for readjusting their methods and thinking to meet present-day conditions has brought about steady improvement in the general situation, the paper points out. Consistent efforts to better service, equipment and public relations is responsible for a steady upturn from the low ebb of 1927.

BIG BUDGET DUE

Total estimated expenditures for new plant and equipment and maintenance materials in 1929, compared with actual expenditures in 1928 follow (in thousands):

	1929	1928
Way and structures	$110,550	$121,090
Cars	67,200	51,190
Buses	36,400	34,110
Power equipment	15,350	16,400
Totals	$229,500	$223,730

Budgets indicate that expenditures on new cars will soar from $18,900,000 in 1928 to $31,100,000 in 1929. Total expenditures on cars in 1929 is placed at $67,200,000, which includes maintenance charges on present equipment.

While the volume of car purchases in 1928 was regretably small, this was not entirely unexpected. For the past three years the car manufacturers have been experimenting with new cars and operators have been delaying their purchases. Satisfactory designs are now available and 40 per cent of all the railways submitting budget figures expressed the intention of making expenditures for new cars and car equipment.

Electric railway track construction activity in 1928 was greater than in the preceding year. Extensions of city track totaled 184 miles, compared with 153 miles in 1927. Extensions of interurban lines totaled [illegible] miles as against 39½ miles in the year previous. Track rebuilt in 1928 was placed at 834 miles as against 888 miles in 1927.

FARES ARE UP

At present the total of city and interurban electric trackage in the United States and Canada is placed at 43,400 miles. This is a decline of approximately 8 per cent in the last ten years. Service on the track abandoned has been replaced in most instances by bus service.

Total number of passengers carried in 1928 by the electric railways of the United States is placed at 15,200,000,000, or virtually the same number as in the preceding year.

The weighted average street railway fare in the United States increased during 1928 to the extent of 2 per cent, or almost to the same extent as that recorded in the preceding year.

The weighted average fare for 1928 was 7.57 cents. The increase reflects higher rates in Baltimore, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Schenectady, Savannah, Portland, Me.; Youngstown and Sacramento.

ELECTRICITY TAKES BIG COAL PILE

Electric generating plants in the United States during 1928 used an average of 2,825,000 tons of coal each month in the production of electrical energy, according to the W. B. Foshay Co. in its weekly report on the public utility industry. The report follows.

"More than 56 per cent of the electric energy generated during 1928 was produced by fuel burning power plants and the remainder by hydro-electric central stations, according to figures compiled by the United States Geological survey.

"The steam-electric power plants during the year used an average of approximately 2,825,000 tons of coal per month; an average of 510,000 barrels of fuel oil and an average of 8,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas per month.

"The use of gas showed an increase of about 21 per cent over the previous year and the use of oil increased about 9 per cent. The use of coal, however, decreased more than 4 per cent.

"The western region showed the greatest increase in gross revenue earned by the electric public utilities during the year, while the Atlantic territory was second. Lesser increases were reported in the New England, North Central and South Central states.

"There has been a uniform average increase, however, during the entire year in the amount of electrical energy consumed and in the total revenues of the public utility companies.

"While energy generated by water power has been less this year than the amount generated by fuel stations, water power generated electrical energy increased materially over that produced during the preceding year. The use of natural gas in fuel stations showed the greatest increase of all types of fuel, utilized in steam electric generating stations."

The village of Windsor, Vermont, has voted to install an ornamental street lighting system, which will be served by Vermont Hydro-Electric Corporation, one of the National Electric Power Group.

Changes in Real Estate Financing Under Way

THE new popular interest in common stocks, instead of bonds, as long-term investments, is changing the set-ups of new real estate promotions.

Leaders of the construction industry are moving in the direction of creating a security which will give outsiders an opportunity to participate in the profits and losses, instead of confining outside investments to bonds and mortgages which give at best only a limited return, irrespective of real estate appreciation. The desirability of buying equities in real estate ventures will, of course, depend on the nature of specific propositions, but in general there seems to be no reason why the venturesome should not acquire speculations in real estate, as well as other economic activities.

After eight years of an intensive building program, real estate lenders are distinctly more cautious, and are requiring builders to put up a larger proportion of the total cost of new operations. Accordingly, conditions are no longer favorable to shoestring operators. In the larger cities, the trend is toward very large and exceedingly expensive operations. In order to raise sufficient equity funds, which, with first and second mortgages, will defray the cost of buying land and erecting buildings, builders are setting up machinery on an increasing scale for selling common and preferred stocks to outside investors. The capital of a single individual is coming to be inadequate for building operations on an increasingly large scale.

The investor should bear in mind that during the boom in real estate outsiders were for the most part limited to mortgage bonds, which offered only a limited return. Now, with real estate fairly well appreciated in value, outsiders are invited to assume the risks of ownership. Though in a growing country like the United States the trend of good real estate values is upward over the long pull, there may be intermediate periods of recession, for which the prudent outsider will make allowance.

The new tendency to offer real estate stocks to the public represents an attempt on the part of builders to raise additional equity funds which conservative leaders are insisting upon. In some cases builders are asking sub-contractors, who furnish materials, to take part of their net profits in such stocks, instead of cash.

A banker remarked that at the present time some of the best business thinking is being done in the field of retail distribution, rather than in the realm of production. By way of illustration, he pointed to instances in which retailers see a new selling opportunity, and take the idea to manufacturers, telling them how to manufacture and price the proposed article. Chain systems are in the best position to undertake such creative buying.

The study of the important subject of business profits is flagrantly neglected by economists. As a matter of fact, little is known even about the specific facts. There is no uniformity in methods among [illegible] corporations of reporting profits. The railroads, on the other hand, are compelled by the Interstate Commerce Commission to submit income accounts and balance sheets in accordance with standardized accounting forms. The public utility operating companies are also called upon by State regulatory commissions to follow prescribed accounting forms. But industrial corporations continue to follow their own whims. The New York Stock Exchange has sought to exercise constructive leadership in inducing listed companies to improve their practices, but its field is limited.

N. Y. CONSOLIDATED GAS

Consolidated Gas of New York is reported planning a stock offering with "rights" to shareholders. Gas is also understood to be contemplating a new and much more attractive offer to minority holders of Brooklyn Edison shares. Rubber shares met profit taking well. It is understood that leading British banking interests are anxious to list on the New York Stock Exchange the shares of prominent British rubber companies, chiefly plantation enterprises.

A. T. & T. RIGHTS

Spurt in American Telephone & Telegraph was in response to buying by investment trusts and other large investors who are appreciative of the stock's extraordinary standing when contrasted with other leading investment issues under prevailing circumstances. The leading public utility enterprise, A. T. & T., has been quite liberal in its treatment of stockholders. The regular cash distribution returns only a fair yield, but due regard should be given to the company's policy of financing through stock, with resultant valuable rights to stockholders which have averaged several dollars per share in recent years. Since the company is in need of tremendous new sums for development and expansion activities, another offering of stock at attractive terms is probable this year.

IN SIMILAR POSITION

International Telephone & Telegraph corresponds to American Telephone & Telegraph in its treatment of stockholders and because of the former's ambitious expansion program it is likely to continue making attractive stock offerings.

STEEL MERGER REVIVED

Executives of various leading steel companies who have been negotiating months with a view to consolidating their enterprises are again understood to have reached a tentative agreement. Companies involved in the proposed consolidation are Republic, Inland, Otis and Central Alloy. Their amalgamation would create a new company powerful in every line of the industry and representing one of the three largest in the trade. As a matter of fact, controlling factors in Republic are also dominant in Otis and Central Alloy, while Inland has been sought by various larger companies.

VANADIUM ACTIVITY

Renewed activity and strength in Vanadium Steel was ascribed to greater recognition of its activities in the chemical field, it is stated. The company has been developing this branch of its affairs in rapid style, according to those who have [illegible]. This development has reached a stage, it is declared, where profits are being shown. Possibilities in the chemical field for Vanadium have been chiefly responsible for the entrance of new interest in the stockholders' lists.

AUTO-LITE EARNINGS

Ford business in larger quantity is coming to Electric Auto-Lite, conforming the opinion that this year will be a record-breaker for earnings.

REVIVING INDUSTRIES

Feature of the latest phase of the market has been the comeback in stocks of companies in industries which have been depressed for years. The baking and rubber shares have been features of this movement. In both trades there has been undoubted betterment of a nature which promises continuance. The baking trade passed through a vicious period of competition, which is not entirely ended yet, and also suffered from extreme mismanagement. The rubber industry was forced into its depression by conditions outside its control, but these have been overcome.

BIGGER UNITS

Reports that du Pont desires Mathieson Alkali emphasizes how the chemical, dye and allied industries are being united into gigantic units, the greatest of which are E. I. du Pont de Nemours, Allied Chemical and Union Carbide.

MARKET OUTLOOK

Stocks have exhibited little tendency to maintain an upward movement despite spurts in the last few weeks. As a matter of fact, the market has been getting nowhere. A few stocks have dominated attention by rising wildly, but the main body of stocks has not advanced. There is a greater pressure evident in the market, according to the best-informed operators. An adjustment of prices comparable to the rapid advance in the last month would set the entire market in better shape.

IN CONFERENCE

C. M. Wooley, president of American Radiator Co., and other officials of the company are in conference with officials of Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Co. Terms of proposed merger involve the exchange of one share of American Radiator for each four shares of Standard Sanitary. It is understood one of the propositions advanced in connection with the exchange is the placing of American Radiator common stock on a $6 annual dividend basis, which would net Standard Sanitary stockholders $1.50 in dividends, against $1.68 being received at present. American Radiator common is now on a $5 annual basis.

CAR LOADINGS FOR WEEK UP

Loading of revenue freight for week ended January 5 totaled 798,723 cars, the car division of the American Railway Association announced.

Compared with preceding week, this was an increase of 131,137 cars, with increases being reported in total loading of all commodities.

The total for the week ended January 5 also was an increase of 44,476 cars over corresponding week in 1928, but decrease of 138,167 cars under corresponding week in 1927.

McFadden Would Change Bank Act

Discretionary authority to waive charges against state member banks for examinations made by direction of Federal Reserve Board or any of the reserve banks is proposed in amendment to Federal Reserve Act, introduced by Chairman McFadden of House banking and currency committee. Proposed amendment is in accordance with recommendations by Federal Reserve Board.

Chairman McFadden stated the board had been handicapped in efforts to establish more effective supervision of banking by the fact that present law requires expense of all examination of member banks made by Federal Reserve Board to be assessed against banks examined. The state banks have objected to bearing this expense because they have the expense of state examination to bear. This amendment would tend to bring more state banks into the Federal Reserve system.

B. & O. Investment Rises $681,635,208 Since 1900

SINCE the start of the 20th century, the Baltimore & Ohio, of which Daniel Willard, a Vermonter, is president, has shown an increase in investment of $681,635,208, according to The National City Company, which has prepared a brief [illegible] of the road's growth and the increasing investment value of its common stock.

From July 1, 1900, to the end of last year, Baltimore & Ohio acquired by purchase over 3163 miles of road, at a cost in cash and obligations [illegible]. In addition to the cost of lines acquired by purchase, the company has expended for additions and betterments to road and in the construction of new lines over $445,635,000, or an average of more than $16,200,000 per annum, after deducting expenditures for renewals and replacements of existing facilities.

As an indication of the efficiency with which Baltimore & Ohio operates, comparative figures are presented in the booklet showing a higher average tractive power per [illegible] than [illegible] Pennsylvania or the New York Central. Based on complete reports for 1927 Baltimore & Ohio showed a cost of hauling one ton of freight and equipment one mile which was 9 per cent lower than on the Pennsylvania and New York Central, and nearly 11.50 per cent less than for all Class 1 railroads in the Eastern District.

Baltimore & Ohio's earning power expanded greatly in the period from 1917 to 1927. Figures given in the booklet show an increase of 76 per cent in gross; 94 per cent in gross corporate income, 55.5 per cent in fixed charges and 179.6 per cent in net corporate income.

Discussing Baltimore & Ohio's position in relation to that of other important railroads, the booklet says:

"A comparison of its earning power with that of other large systems over the last four years serves to emphasize the strong position of its [illegible] 28, Baltimore & Ohio's average annual earnings per share of common stock, including the estimated contingent interest as stockholders in the undistributed earnings of affiliated and other companies, amounted to $14.92 per share. This compares with $7.38 for Pennsylvania (par $50), $16.78 per share for New York Central; $11.44 for Great Northern, $17.84 for Southern and $10.11 for Southern Pacific.

"For the year 1928, Baltimore & Ohio's estimated earnings were equivalent to [illegible] per cent of the market price of the common on December 22, 1928. This percentage of market price compares with 10.4 per cent for Pennsylvania, 7.4 per cent for New York Central, 8.8 per cent for Southern Railway, 10.5 per cent for Norfolk & Western, 8.9 per cent for Southern Pacific and 8.6 per cent for Atchison."

Naumkeag Report for 1928 Shows a Profit

DESPITE the fact that the first half of 1928 was not good for Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co. lines, the company for the full year is able to report earnings of $449,898 before taxes in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1928. This compares with $1,598,542 after taxes in the previous fiscal year.

Naumkeag's last year's profits [illegible] $7.3[illegible] per share on the [illegible] shares of stock outstanding. These profits compare with net after all charges including taxes in 1927 year of $1,598,542, equal to $26.64 per share, and with 1926 net after depreciation and inventory mark down, but before federal taxes of $423,807, equal to $7.06 per share.

For 1928 year production totaled 20,945,905 yards and sales 20,397,143 yards, valued at $7,2[illegible].

Treasurer Ernest N. Hood says: "Goods manufactured and shipped to our customers did not move into consumption as early in 1928 as we had anticipated. In fact the first half of 1928 was a period of hesitation with sales poor and stock piling up. To meet the situation a general program of curtailment was adopted, and by the end of 1928 conditions were again approaching normal.

"Unfortunately the conditions outlined were not favorable for profitable operations and profits for the year, after depreciation, were but $439,898 or only a little more than half our dividend requirements. Of these profits, $358,439 were earned in the last half year, and during this period we approximately earned our dividends.

"Concerning 1929 the wide sheeting industry is handicapped by intense competition caused by an over capacity to produce. Fortunately for us, however, the nation wide popularity of our Pequot brand, which has by far the widest distribution of any sheet in the country, places this company in a much better situation than others, and we can rather definitely predict that the first quarter of the year will be about normal in production, sales and profits, and [illegible] advance to the [illegible] time.

"During the year we introduced our Pequot sheets and pillow cases in color—both in solid colors and in colored hems, attractively packaged in box sets. These met with instant favor and the demand for the Christmas trade was exceedingly large. While bleached goods will perhaps always form the backbone of our business our new line in color should prove a profitable supplement.

"Pequot is not only the largest seller of all the nationally known brands but also has the widest distribution. There is no large city and hardly a town of consequence in the whole country but has a Pequot distributor, and in New England alone there are several thousand outlets."

Mortgage Company Earns $11.85 Share

Gross earnings of State Title and Mortgage Co. for the year ended Dec. 31, 1928, were $1,270,109, while net profits transferable to surplus were $590,908, equal to $11.85 per share on the company's outstanding common stock. While the company has shown constant growth since inception, such results during 1928, a year when investors were seemingly more interested in stocks than in mortgages, are unusual, it was said.

David H. Knott, president of the company, in explanation stated that under the law trustees are required to invest in mortgages legal for trust funds which results in a market demand for such mortgages which has little or no relation to the condition of the general bond market.

More Mergers Seen for 1929 Business

Mergers and consolidations characterized American business throughout 1928, and may be expected to continue to do so during 1929.

This is the opinion of 149 editors of business papers in the fields of production, merchandising and the service functions as reported for the third semi-annual survey of business conditions undertaken jointly by the Associated Business Papers and the national conference of business paper editors.

AYRES LOOKS FOR FURTHER STOCK RISE

"The recent and present volumes of stock trading [illegible] are not unprecedentedly great compared with financial resources of this country," says Col. Leonard P. Ayres in bulletin of Cleveland Trust Co.

A diagram accompanies his remarks showing dollar values of stocks traded as a percentage of all [illegible] over 41 years. The lines are astonishingly close to [illegible] tion in the past year has been relatively very large compared with standards since 1910 but not relatively large compared with speculation of the first 10 years of the century, or the 80's.

Another conclusion is: "We appear to be entering another period of relatively high volume of stock speculation rather than merely experiencing a purely temporary flareup of public interest and participation. It seems unlikely that the phenomenal records of 1928 will constitute durable landmarks in stock market progress."

INDUSTRY IN DEMAND FOR TARIFF

T. P. Walker, executive vice-president of the Commercial Solvents Corporation, filed the following brief before the committee on ways and means in the House of Representatives at Washington, requesting tariff protection on butyl acetate and similar competitive products.

The Commercial Solvents Corporation is American owned and operated. Its plants are located at Terre Haute, Ind., and Peoria, Ill., where 8,000,000 bushels of corn are transformed into chemicals, chiefly butyl alcohol and 250,000 tons of coal are used annually. Seven hundred and fifty men are employed, representing over $1,500,000 as an annual wage expenditure. In this number are included approximately 100 technically trained men.

Approximately 85 per cent of the butyl alcohol produced by Commercial Solvents Corporation is converted into butyl acetate before it is utilized in making lacquer—the modern finish for automobiles, furniture, etc.

Importation of butyl acetate from Germany has curtailed production and has been the chief cause of cessation of operations at the Terre Haute plant during the greater part of 1928. American labor, corn and coal were naturally adversely affected.

While the tariff act of 1922 placed a duty [illegible] of the domestic price of this product has steadily declined to about 65 per cent of the 1921 price. The protection afforded by the tariff gave us the apparent assurance that further plant expansion would be safe, and as a result the plant at Peoria was constructed in 1923. Since the tariff of 1922 was enacted, our corn-consuming capacity has been increased from less than 3,000,000 to over 10,000,000 bushels annually. The importation of German butyl acetate, synthesized from non-agricultural raw materials, has prevented the fullest utilization of our corn-consuming capacity and now seriously threatens to considerably further reduce our corn consumption and butyl alcohol production.

We are asking for no increase in the specific duty of 6 cents per pound on butyl alcohol. We do, however, respectfully request a specific duty of 7 cents per pound on butyl acetate and similar competitive products which but slightly more than covers the specific duties now assessable on the raw materials required to make one pound of butyl acetate.

U. S. STEEL IS SEEN IN GOOD POSITION

An analysis of the great asset values and potential earning power of U. S. Steel is hardly worth making up, as its position is understood by practically everyone who gives the security markets any thought, says E. F. Hutton & Co.

However, certain points regarding its immediate outlook would seem worth calling attention to. Current activity in the industry and the outlook for the first six months of the year suggest a net in that period of $10 a share for U. S. Steel.

This is "at the rate of" $20 per annum. Furthermore, we are talking about reported earnings and it has been reliably figured out that at least $2 per share per year has been conservatively written off. The recent tax decision amounts to about $4 a share, and if all the tax suits pending should go to U. S. Steel it would amount to a total of $20 a share. A stock dividend is likely this spring.

Steel has been selling at about 12 times earnings, which in itself is low compared to ratios now commonly accepted for other shares. Marketwise the stock's record has not been good. Thus during the Coolidge-Hoover 1928 bull market, U. S. Steel advanced only about 16 points.

Contrast this with the 100 point gain of the Dow Jones averages, 204½ points for American Smelting, 138 for Westinghouse Electric, and the other large gains shown by Montgomery Ward, Radio, International Nickel, etc.

The outlook for earnings, etc., cited above, clearly justifies a better market than these figures show. It is probably a matter of sponsorship. We see indications that the important personalities that have stood behind the large gains in certain well known industrials are turning to U. S. Steel. It should mean a great deal to the stock marketwise and make it one of the real leaders of 1929, if not the one outstanding leader itself.

With the uncertainty surrounding the position of many stocks and in fact the position of the list as a whole, U. S. Steel offers a safe medium of investment or speculation of a very standard character.

New Explanation of Brokers' Loans Rise Offered

A broker who has made a study of brokers' loans says new listings running into billions of dollars over the last six months have had more to do with increased brokers' loans than price fluctuations.

Hull, Eng., Jan. 17 (INS)—Being the husband of a Venus is no sinecure, according to one of them. Mrs. Eva Venus applied to the Hull magistrates for a separation order against her husband, William J. Venus, a singer.

Opposing her application, the husband stated in his evidence his wife was so lazy that he had to wash her, dress her, cut her nails, [illegible] her and do the housework. Mrs. Venus' application was dismissed.

Prof. Michelson, 76, Sets Out on 3 Great Tasks

Chicago, Jan. 17 (AP)—At the age of 76, Prof. A. A. Michelson, University of Chicago scientist, who computed the speed of light, has outlined three major tasks for himself.

One, he says, will be a new measurement of light speed. His last calculation of 186,284 miles a second is accepted as "right within a single mile."

He will attempt to perfect a method by which the diameter of stars may be measured with greater exactness.

His third undertaking is a final test of Einstein's theory of relativity, based on Michelson's own calculations.

Last November he expressed doubt of Einstein, but now he is "almost convinced" Einstein is right in the belief in non-existence of what science terms ether.

PROPER PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES NOW CONTROL EPIDEMIC

Health officials in the many sections of the country suffering from influenza have [illegible] toward curbing its spread. Common sense advice has been published broadly and followed by the public in general. The advice of these officials deserves the attention of everyone.

Avoid crowds wherever possible. Keep away from people who are sneezing and sniffling. If you seem to be catching a cold, consult your physician immediately. Exercise regularly in the open air when possible. Eat only wholesome food. Drink plenty of water. Get a full night's sleep. Such precautions are what tend to maintain the greatest bodily resistance to disease.

With the influenza prevalent many consider Vapex a special blessing. Many have formed the worth while habit of putting a drop on a folded handkerchief every morning. The odor of the vapor is very pleasant and refreshing. It may be inhaled frequently during the day. There is no bother or dosing to Vapex. It is the modern way to stop a cold at the start. Get Vapex from your druggist in the little [illegible] dollar bottle, containing [illegible] applications, and the package with the green triangle.

FRECKLES FINDS THE ANGEL

By Jeannette Stratton Porter

The Boston Evening American is a paper pledged to preserve peace among the citizens of this nation and promote the peace of the world.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

A HOME PAPER FOR [illegible] PEOPLE WHO THINK

BOSTON, THURSDAY, JANUARY 17, 1929

SECOND SECTION

Six-Day Novel by a Famous Author

FRECKLES is a young Irish lad raised in an orphan asylum in America. Jim McLean boss of a lumbercamp, gives him a job. Freckles, who has but one hand, meets a girl "Angel," who sends him to aristocratic relatives in Ireland where she discovers he is a lost heir. There, as Lord O'More, he is unhappy. Writing the "Angel" that he is a failure and she is free. The "Angel" in dismay accepts Dick Summerfield's proposal.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER 4

THE Angel was having a gay little dinner party, not that she wanted it, but her Mother had suggested it, seeing that the Angel was unhappy and worried. She had told no one of her engagement to Dick; she was not quite happy about it.

Dinner over, they strolled into the music room, [illegible] up the rug, and [illegible]. Dick was devouring the Angel with his eyes, and the others were [illegible] amused by it.

[illegible]

[illegible] would go home, I want you all to myself. I can't [illegible] their foolishness—they [illegible]."

"You're not so terribly ancient yourself."

"Well, I feel grown up—I've a lot of responsibility now—I've got to do something big for you."

"Don't take yourself so seriously, dear."

"I have a good job. My father says I am making good, and if I am, I'd be [illegible]. Just let [illegible] watch my smoke now—[illegible] is good as mine [illegible] I hope [illegible] that—I'd love to [illegible] father."

The Angel smiled.

[illegible]

"I [illegible] to be, with [illegible] to the [illegible]."

[illegible] Angel was [illegible] engaged to Dick [illegible] was [illegible] she was not sure she liked [illegible] were disturbing. [illegible] she was 'free' but was [illegible] kiss burned her lips. [illegible] had not been like that. [illegible] What was holding [illegible]?

Freckles' Letters to Angel Causes Commotion In Family

Next morning the Angel seemed her old self again. She laughed and chatted and ate her breakfast with real relish. Her Dad and Mother noticed the change, and wondered what had happened. But they asked no questions; the Angel would tell them in her own time and way.

Angel waited until she saw her Dad go to the bank. Then the Angel tiptoed up the attic stairs, and hunted among the trunks and boxes until she found her banjo she had not touched it since Freckles left.

[illegible] little difficulty [illegible] and finally had to take it down to [illegible] before it pleased her. [illegible] song a simple song of [illegible] she stopped singing and [illegible] there was a queer look in her eyes.

"I'd like to tell you about a plan of mine, and see what you think of it," she said to her mother later.

For a long time they sat in earnest conversation. Then the Bird Woman rose.

"It's [illegible] feasible—at any rate it's worth trying. I'll go with you, and we'll catch the 4 o'clock train, but we'll have to step on it—it's lunch time now."

"Promise me not to tell Dad—if my plan fails no one must know it but we two."

"I promise."

The Angel left the lunch table early, went to her room and began to pack. When she had gone her mother said to Dad, "I want to go away for a couple of days with the Angel."

Two days in Chicago and [illegible] but triumphant [illegible] before they took the train home, a package was started on its way to Freckles.

When the Angel reached home, she telephoned to Dick, asking him to come to see her at once—there was something she must tell him.

"Dick," she began, "I've done a terrible thing—I can only hope that you will forgive me."

"I engaged myself to you when I loved another man. Really, I didn't think I loved him when I did it, but I know now that I did; I've loved him always, I've never loved anyone else."

"I was so lonely, and so worried—I haven't seen him for four years. You are such a peach, Dick—you were kind, and attentive and sweet to me just when I needed a friend—and I took advantage of it—I'm so ashamed—you are just like the Rock of Gibraltar, Dick—always there—always safe—something substantial to lean against. But I must not make excuses—there is no excuse for me—I took advantage of your love because it soothed me—made things easier for me—it was a selfish and wicked thing to do. Can you imagine what my dad and mother are going to say to me for this? You should hate me, Dick. You should never speak to me again."

The Angel was sobbing; Dick took her hand.

"Don't, dear—I'm here—and I will be here always for you to lean upon—you did not realize what you were doing—you are not the kind to do things like that deliberately or purposely. But who is this other man?"

"You are a perfect darling to understand—you would say just the right thing to comfort poor me—" Then the Angel began at the beginning, and told him all about Freckles; she felt she owed him a candid explanation after her inexcusable behavior. After telling him the whole story, she gave him Freckles' letter to read.

"So you see, Dick, maybe I can't have him after all—maybe he does not love me—but no matter, loving him I cannot marry you. As soon as I realized it, I came to you. I'm dreadfully sorry—but it's better for you to know it now, than after it's too late."

"Don't think any more about me—it's your happiness that counts. It's a pretty stiff jolt, but I do not intend to let it ruin my life. I'll pick up the stray ends and start over," and Dick managed a sickly smile through set teeth.

As the door closed after Dick, the Angel heard her Dad's voice calling her. She went into his study.

"My dear, Mr. McLean is coming to see me this afternoon—he is anxious about Freckles—says he has had no letter from him for two months. If you think it's all right I'd like to have Freckles' letter to show to him."

The Angel took the letter from her sweater pocket, and handed it to him.

"Of course, Dad, Mr. McLean should know everything [illegible] he will be hurt—he [illegible] for Freckles, and [illegible] grateful. If he doesn't [illegible] as we all planned, Mr. McLean will never get over it."

"When are you going to tell me about that secret trip to Chicago?"

"Pretty soon, Dad. You'll have to trust us a little longer. You see—we—we—we tried an experiment—we can't talk until we see if it works."

"You know best. But what is [illegible]? It's got my goat. [illegible]"

At [illegible] McLean arrived [illegible] for [illegible] who took the letter from his pocket [illegible] McLean. He read it hurriedly, and then read it again.

"Great Heavens, man, what hell that boy has been through; this letter is certainly the product of a tortured, perverted viewpoint, totally unlike Freckles."

"Yes, and what hell my girl has been through, too, don't forget that. This thing is not one-sided, not by a long shot. Maybe you don't know it, but there's something else to think about. Dick Summerfield is hard hit, you know how attractive the Angel is. Dick is a splendid lad—I'd hate to see him get a rotten deal."

"I don't think you need worry on that score. The Angel is not the kind."

"Not intentionally, of course. But she is very young and that is a loss at times when inexperienced [illegible] we are all human, and the best of us make mistakes. She has been lonely and blue and hurt for a long time, and Freckles has not been what you could call a comfort lately. Lord knows stranger things than that have happened. This is a fine kettle."

McLean could not ignore the sarcasm in the banker's voice, [illegible]

MISSING MAN PHONES HOME

Missing from home since Saturday, John W. Martin, 53, Revere school custodian, was found today at the North station, Boston, about to take a train fr New Hampshire.

Martin said h's mind was a blank as to the happenings of the last few days. He did not know why he was going to New Hampshire, he said. He returned willingly to his residence on North Shore [illegible] and went to bed. Doctors [illegible] would be normal after resting and would be able again to [illegible] work at the Lewis Paston [illegible] school [illegible].

Revere police had been searching marshes and woodlands for Martin since yesterday. He was found today after he had telephoned his family that he was all right and was at the station. He said he had read in the Boston Evening American that his absence caused alarm.

Judge Hallran found Corrigan had been refused a license to operate a car in Rhode Island because he was [illegible] by a [illegible] that he knowingly [illegible] as a result a [illegible] has been ordered to issue [illegible].

Miss Scanlon died at the Norwood Hospital September 20 from injuries suffered when the car driven by [illegible] was in collision with a [illegible] by George F. [illegible] of Boston who was exonerated in Judge Hallran's finding.

The report said the direct cause of the accident was due to an epileptic seizure resulting in immediate loss of control and movement of the car. It was brought out that Miss Scanlon drove the machine from Rhode Island into Massachusetts and Corrigan took the wheel then.

Pope Homesick As He Sees Snow

Rome, Jan. 17 (AP)—The unusual spectacle of all Italy from the Alps and the Apennines to Naples and Sicily covered with snow was afforded today to the population and a vanguard of winter tourists.

When Pope Pius opened his window in the Vatican he could see the Alban and Sabine hills surrounding Rome snowcapped [illegible] his own beloved Alps, over which he tramped as a young seminarian in the north of Italy.

The pontiff remarked to one of his intimates that the unusual sight made him homesick.

New Britain, Ct., Jan. 17 (AP)—Henry P. Roche, judge of city and police courts, died a victim of influenza. He had practiced law here since being admitted to the bar in 1912 and became a judge two years ago.

He was a graduate of Holy Cross College, class of 1909, where he played football, and a graduate of Yale Law School three years later.

Six Are Saved In Brockton Fire

Brockton, Jan. 17—Six persons, three of them children and another an invalid discharged from a hospital a few days ago, were today rescued by firemen and police when fire swept through a three-family dwelling house at 371-373 Crescent st.

The rescued are Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Bloomstein and their three children, Samuel 12, Leo, 8, and Morris, 4, occupying the third floor, and Mrs. David [illegible] Coope, the invalid, living on the second floor. The rescues were made by Patrolmen H. F. Kearns and Thomas Re[illegible]y and Firemen Fred J. Gournoyer, William J. Havercy and Axel C. Larson.

The fire started from a defective furnace according to officials, and caused a loss of $4[illegible]. The three families were cared for by neighbors.

RELIEF FROM HABIT-FORMING LAXATIVES

Sufferers from constipation will welcome a remedy that is made to do more than just relieve immediate symptoms! Thalax—it is called.

Thalax tends to do away with medicine taking! For besides bringing prompt relief, it so strengthens and tones the bowels themselves, that their natural action is gradually restored, and after a reasonable time no more medicine should be necessary, except possibly at rare intervals. Thalax puts life into bowel muscles that have been relaxed or weakened by too much drugging.

Take one or two Thalax tablets tonight at bedtime. In the morning you will experience a natural movement, without griping or distress. Use Thalax at intervals until your bowel movements become normal and natural again, then stop using it. The natural bowel action will continue. No habit will be formed. You will experience no harmful after-effects whatsoever. Instead, the relief will be very noticeable and welcome.

Leading druggists everywhere sell Thalax, 35c per bottle of 30 tablets. If your druggist hasn't it, send direct to the makers, K. A. Hughes Company, Boston, Mass.

New Recipe for Coloring Gray Hair
By LOIS PAGE

One of the questions most frequently asked me is: "What shall I do for my graying hair?" Unhesitatingly I recommend that tried and proven recipe of sage tea and sulphur. A brew of common garden sage with sulphur and alcohol added, makes the best hair restorer I know of.

You can either prepare the mixture yourself at home, or as most people prefer to do, buy it already prepared and ready to use. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur is the name of the ready-to-use preparation and since all druggists sell it at 75c a bottle, there is really no need of going to the bother of making it yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it, and draw it through the hair, one strand at a time. One application banishes the gray and one or two more completely restores your gray, faded or streaked hair to its original color. There is no hard, dyed look. The whole effect is one of perfect naturalness. Thousands of men and women use this preparation with no one suspecting it.

Fighters Want More Than Big Money

By JACK DEMPSEY

"FIGHTERS," Tex Rickard once said to me, "are as proud and temperamental as opera stars. Each one wants to be considered the greatest.

"I never saw a champion yet who didn't think more of [illegible] than of the money it brought in. [illegible] the money that made you [illegible]

"It was your darn pride, and that pride is what keeps the boys going along."

[illegible] he is the best [illegible] with Johnny Sudenberg [illegible] as I did beating Firpo and Ca- [illegible]

They were as comparatively big shots when I was a kid as the later stars I met, and they gave me just as savage fights.

The difference in the returns was about half a million dollars, but when you're in there trading punches you don't think of that.

There was as much thrill in being knocked down by Sudenberg and then getting up and licking him as there was with Firpo, even if there was such a great difference in the financial returns.

[illegible] Firpo [illegible] to get excited. [illegible] you know that I was [illegible] that evening.

RICKARD, incidentally, was a great booster for the "bool," and there was [illegible]. The fellow fairly oozed color, [illegible] strong.

And, what a wallop he had. It felt as though the whole side of a house had fallen on you when it landed. Tex never forgot him. While Firpo was prospering and growing fat in Buenos Aires Rickard still had him in mind.

He cabled him to find out if there was a chance of his bringing his [illegible] the present heavyweight scene, and Firpo [illegible] promote, either, but he respected Tex even more than Tex admired him, [illegible] greedy Firpo was for money [illegible] Rickard [illegible]

My fighting pride has been touched by the Stribling-Sharkey fight that we are going to put over in Miami Beach. I'm going to do my darndest to help put it over, too.

[illegible] He taught Sharkey the best [illegible] of boxing and speed.

He was also sweet on Stribling, and Billy's knockout record indicates that he does not have to take a back seat for anyone in that line.

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

Manager Eddie Powers is priming his Tigers for the Philadelphia Arrow game on Saturday night. Although Bill Field and Clark Heyd did not play in Springfield, the Tigers fought their way to a scoreless tie with the Indians.

The Tiger-Arrow contest will be a fine weekend attraction to the fans and one of the largest crowds of the season will be at the Arena. [illegible]

The story that Myles Lane is unpopular with the Rangers is just so much bunk. The Rangers have been doing everything in their power to develop the former Dartmouth star. Also he has been extended more privileges by Manager Lester Patrick than any player on the roster.

[illegible]

Bobby Hewitson took a goal away from Dit Clapper in the third period of the Ranger game, for the Hastings lad was onside from the start of the play.

Hitchman got a break and was almost to the center zone before Clapper broke away from a scrimmage in front of his net. Hitch made the pass and Hewitson set up the claim that Clapper was ineligible.

Eddie Shore and Perk Galbraith got down to see the Bruins off on the second Western trip. Eddie is [illegible]

Steve Hopkins, the well known junior golfer, is playing a snappy game at left wing for Rivers School. On two occasions this season, Hoppy has come through with the winning goals.

The Ottawa Senators have played less than nine games [illegible] have as many points for the games as they have for games won. The loss of [illegible] is mainly responsible [illegible] the Senators' poor showing this season.

One of the most bitterly contested college games of the season will be the Boston College-Boston University tilt at the Arena tomorrow night.

For the past few years, the Terriers have had an edge on the boys from the Heights in hockey but Sonny Foley is developing a well balanced team and hopes to turn the tide in favor of Boston College.

[illegible] Jack Adams [illegible]

The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Detroit Cougars have a couple of tough games scheduled for this week-end. They will oppose each other in the Smoky City Saturday night, and the Adams crew dash back to Detroit for a Sunday night game with the Maple Leafs while Odie Cleghorn and his Buccaneers make an overnight jump into New York to meet the Americans.

Andy Aitkenhead is not long for the Canadian-American League. Aitkenhead has made the Springfield fans forget that Abbie Cox ever guarded the nets for the Indians. He is the property of the New York Rangers and Manager Lester Patrick will take him up in the near future.

Johnny Morris, the T. D. champion, is going to demand an investigation to disclose who is responsible for the tabling of his application for a referee's berth in the Canadian-American League.

FRANCE AGAINST OLYMPICS

Paris, June 17 (AP)—"Shall France send an Olympic team to Los Angeles in 1932?" is a question that Match, the most widely read sporting weekly in France, has asked of 50 prominent athletic officials.

The answer has been "no" seven times out of ten, but the matter is far from being decided. Although most of the officials believe the expense of the long journey is too great Count Clary, president of the French Olympic committee, and Frantz Reichel, its secretary and the organizer of the 1924 Olympic games at Paris, have answered affirmatively.

The conclusion drawn by the paper is that the financial difficulties will be overcome and a team numbering probably 20 or 25 will represent France in California.

Rubicam Elected

Philadelphia, Jan. 17—Milton Rubicam, of Collingswood, N. J., star right guard of the Temple University football team, was today elected captain of the wrestling team for this season. He was undefeated as a 160-pound grappler last year, and this year has moved up to the 175-pound class.

MR. BOSTON

By Jack Conway

JACK SHARKEY was whaling away at a punching bag when Mr. Boston stepped in at Jim Toland's Gym.

"[illegible]," remarked Johnny Buckley in [illegible] "The [illegible] New York Sunday night," went on Buckley. "Sharkey is fighting K. O. Christner in the New York Garden a week from Friday night."

Jack will work at St[illegible] Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday [illegible]

While [illegible] K. O. bird from Akron will put Sharkey on edge for his jam with Young Stribling at Miami [illegible]

Sharkey [illegible] who has forgotten more about [illegible] than most of our carefree heavyweights know.

"I understand Sharkey only weighs 193 pounds," remarked Mr. Boston. "He looks trim and ready to go. This should mean a rather rough evening for Christner."

"I believe Sharkey [illegible] Christner before the Stribling [illegible] his pleasure of distance and [illegible] a week to 10 days and then get down [illegible] with Stribling."

"BILLY MURPHY of Lowell is boxing on the same card with Sharkey and Christner," volunteered Buckley. "He will be opposed by Canada Lee in a 10-round bout.

I feel that Murphy will go over big in New York. He is a fast, clever boxer and a sharp puncher. He is also one of the few so-called welterweights who can make 147 pounds. The average young man who claims he is a welterweight does most of his thumping up around 150 pounds.

"If Murphy scores a win over Canada Lee, I intend to challenge Mello once more for a title jam. I shall insist, though, that the weight for the contest be 147 pounds at 3 o'clock. In future, Murphy isn't going to give away weight to an opponent of Mello's standing."

BOBBY GOLDMAN stepped into the huddle.

"Did I hear somebody mention Mello's [illegible]

"I was just saying Murphy would [illegible] at 147 pounds," replied Buckley laughingly.

"Then why didn't he do so at Fenway Park last summer?" shot back Goldman.

"Now, boys, you should be old enough to know that gymnasium arguments don't help to pay the income tax," chirped Jim Toland. "I think everybody would be better off if the conversation shifted to Harry Goldstein. There's a fighter. This kid is the best flyweight in the world."

"Why don't you say you're his manager?" queried Goldman.

"There's no crime in managing a good fighter, is there?" retorted Toland with great feeling.

"DON'T annoy me by talking about fighters,' pleaded Jimmy Brown as he breezed along. "There's only one perfect athlete. He's Gus Sonnenberg, world's heavyweight wrestling champion. He's my baby. Tra-la-la!"

BY this time Sharkey had finished his training. He already looks to be in perfect condition.

"Here's my baby," said Sharkey, jokingly, as he exhibited his powerful right fist. "Just now I want to let my baby kiss Christner and Stribling with every bit of my power behind the old smack."

Next make [illegible] by melting 1½ tbsps. butter, adding [illegible] then add one cup of light cream or rich milk and two egg yolks. Add this to the halibut or other fish, and let stand for a couple of hours. Then shape into cutlets [illegible] shape, dip in flour, then in beaten egg and last of all in bread crumbs, and fry in deep fat until golden brown. Serve with this caper sauce:

Caper Sauce—Melt 2 tbsps. butter, add 2 tbsps. flour and 1 cup of milk. Then stir in gradually the beaten yolks of two eggs and ½ cup of butter, adding the butter bit by bit and stirring constantly. Season with a few grains of cayenne, ½ tsp. salt, [illegible] tbsps. lemon juice and 2 tbsps. [illegible]. Chopped pickles can be used if you haven't the capers on hand, though they are to be preferred.

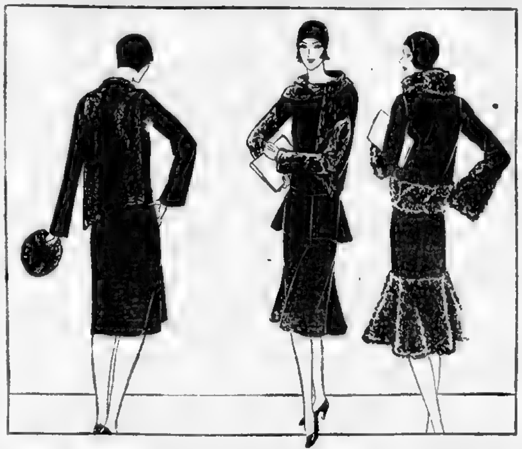
Black Broadcloth and Fur



AFTER all the variety made possible in the winter mode and the wide range of colors, it is interesting to note that black stands out as the most startlingly fashionable color at gatherings in the city such as smart luncheon places.

Black, again given the lead in the couturier world, is one of the most flattering colors for the woman who is at all needful of retaining her freshness of youth and a flawless complexion.

The black broadcloth costume distinctive in its fabric appeal and soft lustre is seen innumerable times both in suits and in coats trimmed with black fur such as caracul or galyak (a very, very short-haired fur with a high lustre, and a pelt much seen this winter on garments of high quality).

In the sketch are shown three costumes typical of the present vogue for the stunning black daytime ensemble. These were worn with very small hats of the skull cap type, completing the effect of youthful chic.

In one very smart black coat at the left the cape back of shiny black galyak presents an entirely new silhouette from that to which we have become accustomed this season. And to this coat in lieu of fur cuffs a tiny barrel muff added the finishing touch.

Black cloth is seen as well as broadcloth, in a material with a sheen not so high as the latter. This soft, rather dull, woolen was used for the smartly flared coat at the [illegible] to the minute in all [illegible] points. An interesting note is the use of black caracul for the away-from-the-face collar, the band of fur suggesting a bolero and the lavish use of fur on the melon shaped sleeves extending almost to the elbow. The flared lines of the skirt section are posed well below the hipline and are carried out in the caracul.

Chanel's cloth suit, one of the season's smartest successes, is shown in the center. Again black is used and is trimmed with galyak. This suit is cut with a flaring peplum and circular skirt and its most [illegible] features are the fur scarf and the sleeves almost entirely of the fur.

And here are some Mock Scallops that are an extremely satisfactory imitation of the real thing, and much less trouble to prepare. Ever try to fry scallops and have them rattle like peas in their pods in their egg and crumb shells?

Mock Scallops—To take the place of scallops when they are high in price or out of season.

Have the skin and bone removed from an inch slice of halibut. Cut in pieces scallop size. Dry thoroughly on a clean cloth, season with salt and pepper, roll in finely sifted crumbs, or if you like a thicker crust, roll them first in beaten egg and then in crumbs.

Fry in deep fat, drain on brown paper, and serve with tartar sauce, ready made, or your own made by adding one tablespoon each of chopped pickles, olives and parsley to half a cupful of mayonnaise dressing.

And while talking about halibut, I mustn't forget to tell you of another delicious way to prepare this aristocrat of the white fish: (Halibut may seem high in price, but remember, it is practically all meat. Ever think what chicken costs you minus the bones, head and "insides?")

Stuffed Halibut Steaks—You can use flounder fillets very satisfactorily instead of halibut. Have two halibut steaks cut an inch thick and below the opening in the body of the fish, so they will be in attractive pieces.

Mix two cups of stale bread crumbs, from the center of the loaf, with two teaspoonfuls of thyme, marjoram and chopped parsley, or 6 level teaspoonfuls of poultry dressing. Add ¼ tsp. of pepper, 1 c. of melted butter or shortening, and ½ c. of hot water.

Brush a shallow pan generously with butter or shortening. Lay in one of the steaks, spread it thickly with the dressing.

Lay the other slice over the dressing, and dredge lightly with salt and pepper. Lay very thin slices of salt pork lattice fashion over the top of the fish, and bake in a moderate oven until the fish separates easily from the bone. Serve with drawn butter sauce.

This is made by melting two tbsps. butter, adding 2 tbsps. flour and 1 c. of boiling water. Boil five minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste and just when ready to serve, ½ c. of butter. Let get quite hot, but do not boil after the last butter has been added or it may curdle.

If it should, beat with egg beater until smooth.

This is perfect weather for you to sit by the fire and write to Martha. I enjoy your letters more than I can tell you and want you to always feel [illegible]

The simple collar and comfortable sleeve are attractive features. A belt holds the fulness of the dress at the waist line. Blue linen with pipings of white or red is suggested for this model.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. To make the Dress for an 8 year size will require 2⅛ yards of 36 inch material. To finish as illustrated in the large view will require 5¼ yards of bias binding.

The Rise of Lotta to Stage Fame

By CONSTANCE ROURKE

CHAPTER 37

In a quiet Boston court roaring days in Tombstone were brightly pictured. Character, episodes, passed in a brief kaleidoscope; witnesses came from the old frontier; a final witness came from the Carolina [illegible] the color of frontier life in an extraordinary fashion both dredged up many of the remaining evidences of that older period; and the claim which concerns this history, that of the woman who maintained that she was Lotta Crabtree's daughter, offered as well a taste of early melodrama.

Her story might have been founded upon one of Lotta's old and least substantial plays. It hinged upon a question of mysterious parentage "with papers" and tokens, and finally the disposal of a fortune.

Ironically enough, this story presupposed a hidden passage in the open life of Mrs. Crabtree. The claimant attempted to prove that Lotta's mother had contracted a marriage which had preceded her marriage to John Crabtree, with another Crabtree said to be his cousin, John Edward. Lotta was described as the child of this union, born after a separation.

John Edward was declared to have migrated to Illinois, where after another marriage he had reared a large family in a primitive cabin near Stringtown at Crabtree Ford, a desolate and lonely place lying west on the Mississippi. Bits of family drama were developed in this prelude.

Mrs. Crabtree, according to the tale, insisted upon money payments from John Edward Crabtree, and second wife was made to turn kindly toward Lotta in her time of trial.

According to the major story Lotta Crabtree was married secretly in England on Christmas Eve, 1877, to a [illegible] known George Manning at "[illegible] Chateau," "the old [illegible] of the Crabtrees" in Lancashire. [illegible] was said to have disappeared [illegible] a child was declared to have been born "in the lap of luxury."

But the mother [illegible] great [illegible] brought her to the home of John E. and Ann Jane Crabtree at Crabtree Ford in Illinois." These [illegible] part of a [illegible] appeared in a worn Bible which was introduced as evidence.

Lotta was pictured as traveling the considerable distance between Crabtree Chateau and Crabtree Ford, arriving one day at the cabin with her child in her arms and announcing, "I am Lotta Crabtree, the actress, and this is my child. Opportunely—in this story—the Crabtrees there had lost an infant girl by death only a day or two earlier, and the child which the shadowy Lotta thus brought to their door was taken into the family and reared as their own.

There were, however, mysterious differences, as in a romantic play. This child had fine clothing, a saddle horse, gold bracelets; she was sent to school. She excited the envy of her foster brothers and sisters, and sometimes their jealous bitterness [illegible] she was in fact like Mabel or the foundling in Pawn Ticket 210, a child of trials.

But at least she became the claimant, and was able to describe Miss Lotta as paying her many brief visits through later years, showering her with money and gifts, writing her many letters, taking her on long trips.

During this period she declared that she had believed Lotta to be her half-sister. It was only after Lotta's death that the Bible containing the brief unhappy story came to light. Lotta was said to have given it long before to another member of the Crabtree family. Unopened, unread, the Bible had been placed in a chest, where it had lain until mention of Lotta's death had appeared in the public prints.

In the trial it turned out that all the letters which might have been proof of Lotta's association with the claimant had been burned in a recent fire. Every witness who had been present at those open meetings was dead, and a dramatic contest developed among the plaintiff's brothers and sisters as to the elaborate narrative.

She was supported by some of them, but an older brother made the journey from Crabtree Ford to Boston, and emphatically denied the entire suggestion that the claimant was not his sister. Behind this struggle for the fortune in court appeared a dramatic struggle in the family, which had involved a midnight ride by the claimant, another Bible which had been lost or stolen, and an effort to cover up or to reveal the date of John Edward Crabtree's birth, which was in fact far too late to have made possible the prelude of Mrs. Crabtree's first marriage.

Precocious Children

By L. E. Bisch, M. D., Ph. D.

Famous Authority on Health and Psychology

MOTHERS are forever wanting to think that their children are exceptionally bright—in other words precocious. And, of course, the first-born is almost invariably considered so.

There is no denying the fact that to watch a child's intelligence flower, to see it develop step by step from helpless infancy to maturity is like observing a miracle. Therefore, parents unacquainted with what a normal child can and should be able to accomplish at the various stages of development should be pardoned when their pride leads them to believe their child is truly exceptional.

Yet a precocious child is not altogether an unmixed blessing.

A precocious child is always one who is decidedly different. And such differences from the average carry with them special problems in child training.

First of all, precocious children do not fit well into the regular grades of the schools.

School subjects which are best for the average of their age are too easy for them and they are likely to become disdainful. They learn quickly, and if too little effort is required they become careless about their lessons and homework and may even develop laziness.

Unusually gifted children also are likely to be unevenly developed. Often they are average in certain school studies and exceptionally bright only in a few others.

This makes it difficult to give them a well-rounded training, even if special tutoring is resorted to.

Furthermore, the precocious are frequently egotistic. Parents and others tend to overpraise them. The children consequently become conceited, and as they grow older this may constitute a real handicap in their social adjustments.

Lastly, there is the nervous factor.

Many precocious children are high-strung and unstable. They may be given to temper tantrums, sleeplessness, sleep-walking, and other nervous manifestations. All these require special study, if not actual medical treatment.

A precocious child is worth all the trouble it takes to raise him properly, but certainly it means patience, understanding and even special knowledge on the part of the teachers and parents if the final result is to be satisfactory.

Because of lack of such benefits, these unusually bright boys and girls often turn out to be peculiar, eccentric, unevenly developed men and women. The possibility of an ultimate neurosis, or functional nervous disease, must always be considered.

In the first place, do not jump to the conclusion that your child is precocious unless you have that judgment backed up by mental tests and, if possible, a scientific opinion rendered by one who specializes in that type of work.

Secondly, if your child really is precocious, be sure to study him as an individual. The rules applicable to other average children may not apply to him.

Do not overstress the mental faculties in which the child excels but stress the education of those in which he is deficient.

Try to make your unusual child evenly developed in all fields.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am about to be married and I am in a difficult situation. [illegible] to have a divorcee [illegible] wedding party? [illegible]

UNLESS this is [illegible] denomination [illegible] the ceremony [illegible] performed, there is no reason why you should not have a divorcee [illegible] in your wedding party.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am a young girl of 18 and recently lost my mother. Is it necessary that I go in all black? Black stockings are very [illegible] I will wear them [illegible] never cared to see [illegible] theme, but I do want to be respectful to her. What do you suggest?

READER.

IT is not necessary for you to wear mourning, especially since your mother did not wish you to. I think it would be more respectful [illegible] to carry out the wishes that she said so definitely [illegible] to swathe yourself in the black that she did not like. Wear dark clothes, of course, and carry your sorrow with dignity and it is not necessary for you to wear mourning clothes.

FRANCIS HOOLEY

Mass. Boy Was Nearly Ruined

Thousands of children are robbed of their birthright of health and happiness by awful constipation. Waste matter held too long in the bowels forms poisons which [illegible] their blood, cause headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, and cause biliousness, make them weak, sallow, fretful and underweight.

Don't let your child suffer from constipation until his stomach and bowels are weakened. At the first sign of bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness, stop his trouble quickly with California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich fruity taste. It cleans them out thoroughly, regulates stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Thousands of Massachusetts mothers are eager to tell of their experience with it. Mrs. Grace Hooley, 15 Whittier St., Boston, says: "My little son, Francis, was nearly ruined by weak bowels before I began giving him California Fig Syrup. He was sallow, bilious, headachy all the time. Now he's strong and well and full of life. Since his experience I've kept California Fig Syrup in the house all the time for colds and any upset spells."

Protect your child from imitations of California Fig Syrup. See that the carton you get bears the word "California."

BOBBED HAIRED WOMEN NEEDN'T HAVE GRAY HAIR

Nature Will Keep Hair Youthful Shade Free of Gray

LIFELESS GRAY HAIR REGAINS OLD BEAUTY

Everybody knows if color glands and hair roots are healthy and active, the hair will continue indefinitely a rich, natural color entirely free of gray or streaked locks.

A doctor several years ago asked himself this question: If I can stimulate digestion, liver, heart, etc., with a tonic, why not rub a stimulating tonic into the scalp that will revive those inactive glands so nature in her own natural way will resume putting plenty of pigment into the hair tubes—surely the hair will then resume its original beautiful shades of youth regardless of user's age or previous condition of their hair.

REMARKABLE DISCOVERY

The doctor's search led to endless experiments. He didn't want a dye or tint, and it, of course, must be harmless even if a person used it many years. Under the name, Lea's Hair Tonic anyone may now purchase the tonic he finally perfected. For several years hairdressers, scattered over the country have been using it. Results are so nice and gradual men used it, too. It doesn't stain the scalp, and as a test one need only apply it to some small spot a few days to watch results. Shampoo as often as desired.

Most people are [illegible] Lea's for gray hair but [illegible] roots [illegible] glands and hair in a healthy, vigorous condition. Of course with a healthy scalp comes a change in appearance of hair and a restoration of the natural shade of brown, red, black, auburn, or blonde. There are some three thousand shades of color in human hair—no dye expert can paint one's hair as exquisitely as nature. Lea's merely stimulates nature to renewed activity, puts nature back on the job you might say, and the tint she imparts to your hair once the scalp, roots and glands become healthy [illegible] What [illegible] natural [illegible] shade to match your [illegible] complexion and beauty?

Experts cannot detect the use of Lea's Hair Tonic.

The "beauty diet" that made her ugly

SHE was one girl who was going to stay attractive—so she watched her "beauty diet." She shunned this and sought for that and compared each day's complexion in her mirror. But in the dishes she so carefully selected there was scarcely any roughage. Constipation gained a foothold. Soon, her charm—the very youth she thought to protect—was paying the price!

Thousands of women and men are paying the price of soft, fiberless meals. Many are dieting—some for overweight, some for underweight, others for better complexions. And yet they defeat their own purposes because constipation continues to poison the system. No other evil is more widespread. It may start with aching heads and blemished cheeks. It often ends with serious trouble and disease.

And more's the pity when it can be so easily prevented by means of a simple cereal. So quickly relieved. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring sure relief . . . safe prevention!

ALL-BRAN is 100% effective

It is roughage that prevents constipation. ALL-BRAN is practically all roughage, or bulk.

This bulk carries moisture throughout the digestive tract. Exercising it, sweeping out poisonous wastes. Part-bran products seldom contain enough bulk to be completely effective. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. It is 100% bran. It accomplishes results part-bran products cannot hope to equal.

Beware of drugs!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is infinitely better than habit-forming pills and laxatives, whose dose must be constantly increased. A naturally healthful cereal! To enjoy with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added.

Use it in cooking too. Recipes on package. Mix it with hot cereals. Sprinkle it into soups. Just eat two tablespoonfuls in some form daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Its regular use will protect your family from the dangers of constipation.

Insist on genuine Kellogg's—the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants, cafeterias. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"[illegible] how you happen to be here?" he asked [illegible]

"I didn't get to [illegible] the route last night," Dick explained "so I came back [illegible] Rand as a passenger."

Carmichael looked at him speculatively

"Of course, young fellow you didn't think those regulations I gave you meant anything," he said in an ironic tone

"I forgot that one captain," Dick said. "I was going back today, so I'd be ready for my run tomorrow."

Carmichael's voice was a little ominous

"It just happens that Old Man Rand wants a reserve pilot at each field [illegible] [illegible] emphatically "That's one of his pet rules." He [illegible] "Too bad, Trent, but I'll have to [illegible]

"[illegible] how did you find out?" [illegible]

[illegible] first thing Tom [illegible] he came [illegible] a few minutes ago was to tell me what you'd done"

Then Dick began to grin too

"[illegible] said he thought you were going to fire me," he said

"[illegible]" Rand laughed "Don't worry about that That's just Captain Carmichael's sense of humor"

Dick remained a few minutes longer Rand was talking frankly to him with the air of one flyer to another Dick realized the subtle compliment

"We want more men like you to put the air mail where it belongs I'm trying right now to persuade the Federal Reserve [illegible] in large amounts instead of [illegible] ten thousand dollars I hope to make a test case [illegible] weeks, perhaps even less. What do you think of the idea?"

Rand did not wait to hear Dick's opinion But talked on and as he talked Dick saw something of the idealism that animated him, to [illegible] color to all he did and said

Presently the older man broke off "Great Scott [illegible] you've had no sleep [illegible] out here [illegible] rest [illegible] to see us [illegible] when you're [illegible] end of the run"

[illegible] As he closed [illegible] Mary [illegible]

She [illegible] with understanding eyes "I wouldn't be a bit surprised [illegible] were a hero" she said "Just because you don't [illegible] like one I can easily imagine your saving someone's life"

"There are a lot of people whose lives I wouldn't save"

"Wouldn't you save [illegible]"

[illegible]

[illegible] Then she said [illegible]

"I think I'll come out to [illegible] tomorrow morning and fly [illegible] plane I need to practice [illegible] I haven't flown since I came back from college and I don't want to get rusty."

'Rainbow Chasing'; Story of Madge and Artist

Madge Sayre lives in a dingy New York apartment She meets Carroll Dudley, artist and aviator. He asks her to pose for him When he is out a woman appears in the studio. "I am Mrs Carroll Dudley," she says Madge finds that Carroll has exhibited her nude picture at a party of his friends She rips the canvas with a stiletto and rushes into the street. She wakes up in a hospital room. There is a message from the rich young Michael Winchester, whose car had run her down. Dudley calls to see her She refuses to see him. Winchester falls in love with Madge, and insists that she go to Atlantic City to recuperate.

By THOMAS EDGELOW

CHAPTER 10

THE morning following Michael Winchester's visit to the hospital was one of pleasant thrills for Madge. A discreet representative from one of the smarter stores arrived [illegible] clothes. And later another representative appeared with mysterious cardboard boxes—boxes of all sizes and colors

Opened, these boxes spilled their riches over the bed heaped them over the chairs [illegible] A [illegible] two afternoon [illegible] the dresses three afternoon frocks [illegible] white, and [illegible] shades. And there were hats and intimate frilly garments, and slippers for all occasions The smaller boxes yielded up their store of stockings, gloves and scarves of filmy delicacy.

Then, when she was alone again [illegible] had been [illegible] [illegible] for him and for his delight [illegible]

"Mustn't [illegible]" she [illegible] herself "Mustn't be [illegible] little ninny There isn't any Carroll—and don't you go and forget it again. No Carroll not any more"

Next morning, the doctors permitted her to leave the hospital. A highly efficient maid one Anna appeared and took charge of the details of equipping Madge for the trip and [illegible] she and her father were at the depot There it became apparent to Madge that the friends of Michael Winchester had their way made smooth A wheel chair was waiting for the arrival of the [illegible] and carried Madge down [illegible] elevator to the train, where she was helped into a drawing room.

"I often wanted to see what a drawing-room looked like" Madge remarked naively to her father after the maid had fussed over her and then discreetly withdrawn. "But I didn't know they supplied orchids with them"

Sayre laughed, but at that moment Michael Winchester tapped on the door.

"I came to see that they were making you comfortable," he said as he shook hands.

"Did you send those orchids?" Madge asked shyly

"To try and make things [illegible] a little more colorful for you" he answered

"I adore orchids" [illegible] enthusiastically

"[illegible] I [illegible] to have thought of them" [illegible] turned with [illegible]

Answer his note [illegible] answer [illegible] when you meet [illegible] next advance come [illegible]

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am an ardent reader of your interesting column, and am taking this opportunity to ask you for advice.

I am 13 years old and dearly in love with a certain someone, [illegible] I have every reason to believe [illegible] We [illegible] each other [illegible]

I had a [illegible] hour [illegible] but [illegible] invitation [illegible] the one preferred [illegible] another boy in our neighborhood

What purpose she had in doing this is beyond me Still, I know we are not tired of each other I feel sure we love each other. What shall I do?

To ignore her may cause our separation But to stick to her now while she is treating me so is foolhardy and embarrassing Please advise me TEDDY.

YOUR friend possibly accept[illegible] [illegible] invitation, Teddy [illegible] natural and excusable thing [illegible] to do

In any event, why do you not prove your good sportsmanship by wishing her well and taking pains to ask her first

Good luck to your friendship with her, and other wholesome, nice girls!

[illegible] and the Angel [illegible] working on [illegible] questions will be [illegible] come

McLeod [illegible] and [illegible] at 4 o'clock

During the past two weeks Freckles had improved [illegible] was conscious all the time, [illegible] something on his mind [illegible] to go to sleep and [illegible] out of the room [illegible]

The doctor said he was out of danger His brain was not injured he could get well rapidly if he would, but he would not. It was a mystery to all of them but Barlow Barlow knew, and his heart was wrecked. He had read and reread the [illegible] to the boy, until it was [illegible] worn out

You see [illegible] she never [illegible] waiting for you [illegible] Barlow said, by way of answer.

"I know that, old man, but [illegible] a cowardly thing Instead of leaving here, whether my uncle wanted me to or not, and going [illegible] back, I wrote her a contemptible [illegible] she wrote this one I told her I was no good—that I did not amount to anything and never would that she was free—that she should forget me"

"But you can answer this letter, sir"

"No I can't not until I get an answer to mine anyway. What would I say? But you did not let me finish The worst thing I did was to accuse her of changing too I had a right to say what I chose about myself, but I had no right to assume anything about her What a perfect ass I am"

"Don't worry, sir. Things have a way of coming out right It isn't so bad if you give it a chance You think about getting well sir That is the most important thing just now."

"I guess you're right If I ever get out of this dammed bed, there is going to be a ruction around here I don't care what they want and they can have their money too I'll make something of myself by myself or I'll beg in the street—one or the other"

Barlow was stunned at the thought of losing the boy but he was excited now He must [illegible] [illegible] it was no time to [illegible]

"Yes, sir, but you must [illegible] else yourself, sir [illegible] [illegible] myself"

As he stepped into the hall [illegible] had come out of her room, and both of them saw [illegible] ing upstairs with the mail [illegible] past Barlow, and [illegible] that there [illegible] addressed to his master [illegible] the mail into her [illegible] half [illegible] steps saw that [illegible] and entered his master's room The letters were in her hand but the package was not. Barlow [illegible] back, and stepped to the door Distinctly he heard the boy's question "Any mail for me?" and [illegible] answer, "No, dear, nothing today"

Barlow was furious but when [illegible] entered the room with the [illegible] few minutes later, there was [illegible] to him that he had [illegible] heard anything

Instant Skin Beauty

WASH AWAY COMPLEXION FAULTS!

Lightens the Skin · Reduces Enlarged Pores · Banishes Blackheads · Eruptions

The newest discovery in beauty culture is that [illegible] of magnesia is much better for the complexion than any soap or cold cream. It beautifies the skin instantly, in the same easy way that milk of magnesia purifies the stomach It reduces enlarged pores to the finest, smoothest texture, almost as if by magic. Being astringent it drives away tell-tale lines of age; you will marvel at the effect of your first facial massage; it rejuvenates the skin so wonderfully that any woman over twenty five at once looks at least five years younger It's marvelous how easy magnesia dissolves blackheads, corrects oily skin and clears the face of pimples

And, because it is so mild, mothers use it instead of soap to bathe the fants. It certainly is [illegible] to [illegible]

It [illegible] extracts [illegible] better [illegible] test it [illegible] pores that stand out so [illegible] dingy sallow skin to [illegible] at once and fades out freckles better than a bushel of lemons

CAUTION—Modern skin specialists say never use soap on your face if your skin is oily. All soaps contain caustic which paralyzes the little oil glands of the skin, keeping them constantly opened. That's why oily skin always gets even more greasy looking after the use of soap.

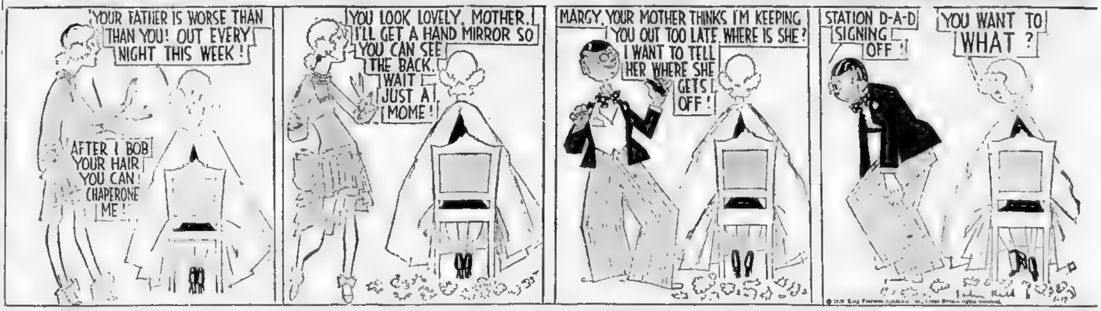
MERELY MARGY

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



YOUR FATHER IS WORSE THAN THAN YOU! OUT EVERY NIGHT THIS WEEK!
AFTER I BOB YOUR HAIR YOU CAN CHAPERONE ME!
YOU LOOK LOVELY, MOTHER. I'LL GET A HAND MIRROR SO YOU CAN SEE THE BACK. WAIT JUST A MOME!
MARGY, YOUR MOTHER THINKS I'M KEEPING YOU OUT TOO LATE. WHERE IS SHE? I WANT TO TELL HER WHERE SHE GETS OFF!
STATION D-A-D SIGNING OFF!
YOU WANT TO WHAT?

"MY dear, I'm all of a TWIT at this point—I mean I ACtually AM, because I had more darn FUN today, my dear! REALLY, it was SIMply exCRUciating because MOTHER finally gave IN and let me BOB her HAIR because I mean she's STILL simply LIVid about DADdy hopping out ev'ry night and I suggested that if she had her HAIR bobbed SHE could chaperon me around instead of DADdy, do you SEE? Well, ANYways, it was too SCREAMing because after I'd DONE this terribly cute JOB on her DOME I rushed FRANtically to get a MIRror to let her see the BACK, and while I was WANDring vaguely ROUND looking for the MIRror, my dear, WHO should scramble dizzily in but DADdy, and, my dear, the poor soul seeing what he thought was ME sitting HEAVily in this CHAIR, draped coyly for a HAIRcut, announced that he'd tell MOTHer where she got OFF with all her incinerations about his keeping me out LATE and everything—can you COPE with it? HONestly, my dear, you should have SEEN his exPRESSion when MOTHer suddenly turned ROUND and he discovered it was HER instead of ME. I mean he was ACtually reDUCED to a PURple PULP, my dear, because I mean he was ACtually emBARrassed to TEARS, no less, do you know what I mean?"

MEDBURY SAYS—

By JOHN P. MEDBURY.

SOME men want all the joys of a benedict with all the privileges of a bachelor.

American Tragedies.

The tramp who had a nightmare. He dreamed he was working.

Social Errors.

A cultured woman should never leave the spoon in the cup when she throws it at her husband.

Take It Or Leave It.

A reformer died the other day and his fraternity brothers are using his head for the cornerstone in their new building.

Matrimonial Martyrs.

The detective who has to make all his arrests in the daytime because his wife won't let him go out at night.

Stop, Look and Listen.

The way that married couples fight, they ought to do away with wedding bells and start using a gong.

To Whom It May Concern.

Breach of promise suits have put kissing on a paying basis.

Pitiful Cases.

The fellow who died in a New York apartment and had to stand up for three days.

Ode To a Centenarian.

The first 100 years are the hardest.

Justifiable Homicide

When a man uses such big words in his sleep that it keeps his wife up all night looking through the dictionary.

Auto-Suggestion

One of the new 1929 sedans has a door in the back for people who are used to riding in patrol wagons.

Our Own Vaudeville.

Sister—Are you really going to marry that homely girl?

Brother—Yes. She's not very good looking, but she has furniture.

BAER FACTS

by Arthur "Bugs" Baer

THE highest fire in the world broke out in the Woolworth Tower last week.

It started on the 55th floor and attacked the coat tails of six sightseers from points west.

It was first noticed by an excited astronomer who was looking for some scandal on the moon.

He called up the fire chief and yelled, "Fire."

Instead of saying, "Where?" the chief asked, "Who?"

This was a natural query due to the recent shakeups in the city departments.

When told that it was on the 55th floor of the Woolworth Building he told them to call up Lindbergh.

When the firemen got to the Woolworth Building they still had a long way to go to the fire.

A young lady on the 60th floor stuck her bean out of the tower and yelled, "Help!"

It was quite a one-sided conversation.

The young lady hollered, "Jump where?"

The firemen went into executive session and reported, "Jump into the net."

The lady replied, "I don't want any non-stop flights. I want a rescue. Who do you think I am, the Question Mark?"

Rather than leap a thousand feet the lady decided to stay in the burning tower and become a biscuit.

The hook-and-ladders only stretched to the 26th floor, and the high-pressure hose managed to clean the windows on the 42d floor.

Finally a hero dashed into the burning building and took the elevator for the Mezzanine Junction. Then he switched to the Perpendicular Express and reached the young lady.

He paid her fare back to the city on the best elevator in the building.

"Where there is smoke there must be a blindfolded cigarette test."

At a late hour last night it was decided that the owners of tall buildings in New York will endeavor to bring their accidental conflagrations a little closer to the fire department.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—

The new propeller recently fitted to the Mauretania is of manganese bronze and cost $15,000.

By 1929 it is reckoned that there will be 30,000,000 motor cars in existence, or one to each 64 of the world's population.

Five million dollars in bar gold weighs seven tons eight and three-quarters hundredweight, and occupies a space of 17 cubic feet. It consists of 600 bars.

Repairs just begun to the Houses of Parliament will take 12 to 15 years and cost $5,000,000. The stone work has been rotted by London's smoke.

The number of boys born still exceeds that of girls, the proportion last year being 1042 boys to 1000 girls. The record for boys was in 1919 when it was 1060 to 1000.

The greatest of Swiss avalanches occurred a century ago, when 5,000,000 tons of ice fell from the Altels Glacier at a speed of 300 miles an hour from a height of 5000 feet. Ice fragments were flung 1500 feet up the opposite mountain side.

Flawless emeralds are very rare. These stones cost about twice as much as diamonds of the same size.

More traffic passes Hyde Park Corner, London, in 24 hours than any other place in the world.

An ordinary third-class carriage constructed entirely of steel is two tons heavier than the wooden type.

WINTER SPORTS AT GREENFIELD

Greenfield is now prepared for winter sports with a foot of snow for tobogganing. The ski jump is one of the most popular in New England. The rink is in excellent condition and expert skaters are working out for the many competitive skating races which are featured.

All winter sports are in direct charge of Strand Mickelsen of Norway, who made the longest standing ski jump of 175 feet at Lake Placid last winter.

The Weldon Hotel, located in Greenfield has become the center of the fun during winter sports. This coming week-end about 60 from the Arnold College of New Haven begin their week's winter outing at the Weldon and with this group in Greenfield it gives promise of a full week.

From February 5 to 10 the Salem Chamber of Commerce have reservations at the Weldon for about 75 of their members.

Not to be forgotten are the excellent sleighing parties which start out from the Weldon and go over the trails into the Berkshires affording beautiful moonlight views—white trails against the hills.

With all the facilities for a good time available at Greenfield it is not unusual that it is fast becoming one of the most popular winter lands in New England.

Grace Liner Has Big Passenger List

With every cabin occupied the Grace Line motor vessel Santa Barbara, departed today for Havana, the Canal Zone and ports on the west coast of South America, with the largest and most representative passenger list ever carried.

The list includes groups of tourists of the International Trade Tour; Thomas Cook and Sons; Raymond & Whitcomb Co. and the Bence Tourist Agency, as well as a number of independent tourists, who will make the trip on the Santa Barbara to the various points of interest in Peru and Chile, later crossing to Argentina on the Transandine Railroad and returning to New York up the east coast visiting Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Rio de Janeiro and other points of interest.

U. S. Reopens German Quota

A cable has been received by the North German Lloyd, at 65 State st., according to which the American consulates in Europe have again opened their lists for applications for American visas for those desiring to come to this country permanently.

This news is of great interest to those who are trying to bring friends and relatives to the United States, as the re-opening of these lists means that additional visas are again being granted.

Those bringing friends and relatives to this country who wish further information can secure this by applying at the office of the North German Lloyd at 65 State st.

Scotty Holmes at New Mah Jong

Winton D. Bee, manager of Mah Jong, Boston's newest Chinese-American restaurant, is pleased to announce that Scotty Holmes, the original dancing bass player and his orchestra have been engaged for the restaurant. Scotty has toured Europe and has played the Keith and Orpheum vaudeville circuits. Many dance music critics consider him in the class with Paul Whiteman. Scotty was featured on Broadway for one solid year. Only recently he refused a sixteen weeks' engagement at a London hotel.

Hebelon, a new organization formed within the Boston Chamber of Commerce made up of rooters for Boston, will hold its first dinner meeting on Wednesday, January 16, at the chamber. A steak dinner with all the fixin's and a program of entertainment featuring the pick of the air are the treats.

Among artists who appeared were Ted and his Minute Hands with Thornton, Earl Nelson, Weymouth Legion Band with Bob Burlen, Carl Moore, Billy Paine, Agnes Ryan and Marty D'Alessio.

The committee in charge of the program included Mark A. Dunham assisted by Willard DeLue and Tom Conway who have made for themselves an enviable reputation for developing unique radio programs.

Anchor Liners Will Be All Cabin Ships

To meet the present-day travel conditions, the Anchor Line steamships California and Cameronia will be converted into cabin ships during the coming season, when they will ply between Boston, Londonderry and Glasgow.

The change, of which the local office has just been advised by cable from Liverpool, will mean a big saving to Boston and New England passengers journeying to and from Scotland and Ireland during the summer. The sister ships, ranking among the finest in transatlantic service, will carry cabin, tourist and third-class passengers, instead of first, second and third-class.

Border Traffic Shows 50 P. C. Increase

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 17—Automobile traffic between Vermont and Canada during the month of December showed an increase of 50 per cent over the same month in 1927, according to Harry C. Whitehill, customs collector.

During the month 16,096 automobiles with 45,697 passengers came into Vermont. The increase was attributed to the mild weather which prevailed.

To Spend Easter in Old Country

More than 100 Greek residents of Massachusetts will sail from Commonwealth Pier, South Boston, next Saturday aboard the British steamer Edison for Patras, Piraeus, and other Hellenic ports. The majority of those embarking here plan to spend the Easter season at their native homes and to return late in the spring.

White Paint on Tankers Reflects Sun and Saves the Oil

As a result of experiments aboard the tank steamer Watertown of the Cities Service Company, it has been proven that by painting such vessels white the sun's rays are reflected instead of being absorbed and the shrinkage of oil is greatly reduced.

Officials of the company have long held the theory that a large part of the shrinkage of oil and gasoline being transported in tank steamers is due to evaporation as a result of high temperatures in the tropics. The tests conducted on the Watertown have proven this theory to be correct and several other Cities Service tankers will soon be white.

FEATURE AT SPORTMEN'S SHOW

Chief Susep Tomckin, in staff photo, is displaying some of his work to Miss Adeline Burt of the Back Bay at the Sportsmen's Show now being conducted at Mechanics Building. Hundreds of exhibits have been assembled for the show. Most of the Canadian provinces have large exhibits as well as New England resorts.

The New England Sportsmen's show in Mechanics Building was in full swing today, after 18,000 persons attended the opening. The show will continue 10 days.

Game life in every part of New England and Canada is represented, and there are numerous other features — almost everything in which the sportsman is interested.

Bill Vogt, nationally famous fly caster, and Chief Dawagnias, equally renowned as a plug caster, are among the entertainers.

Hundreds of trees, brush and leaves, beavers' dams, woodsmen's cabins, Indian wigwams and all kinds of woodland settings supply the real atmosphere of the forest. There are bears from various states and Alaska and Canada, mountain lion from Montana and Utah, wildcats from Maine, Texas, Florida and New Hampshire, and bay lynx from Arizona.

MODERN FILM SHOWS WIDE OPEN SPACES

Seeing and hearing America first might well be the title of "In Old Arizona," William Fox's first out-of-doors all-talking Movietone picture coming Saturday to the Modern and Beacon theaters.

Much of America's famous open spaces is seen in this film which depicts the adventures of "The Cisco Kid," a character famous throughout the southwest. "In Old Arizona" was photographed in Zion National Park and Bryce Canyon, Utah, the Old Mission of San Fernando, Cal., the Mojave Desert, and other spots in Arizona and the great Southwest.

Fox Movietone is responsible for the reproduction of the dialogue and the incidental sound effects. "In Old Arizona" boasts two directors: Raoul Walsh of "What Price Glory" fame, and Irving Cummings who made "Romance of the Underworld," "The Johnstown Flood" among other well-known features.

More than 50 microphones were necessary to transfer the dialogue and sound effects to the 18 patented sound-proof wagons. Twenty-two sound engineers, 30 technicians and 150 helpers were on location with the company at all times. Three years of experimentation with the Fox Movietone News assured accurate auditory as well as visual reproduction of "In Old Arizona."

YOUNG IN YEARS IS TED CLAIRE

Ted Claire, the new singing and dancing master of ceremonies at the Metropolitan, is one of the youngest juvenile performers in the entire country.

Ted Claire

Although young in years, Ted has had considerable experience as a juvenile lead in some of New York's most successful musical plays which have had extended runs in New York, Philadelphia and Boston in the past few years. He was seen as the leading juvenile in "Artists and Models of 1926," "LeMaire's Affairs," which ran for six months in New York, and "Frivolities" another Broadway revue, which had extended runs in most of the important key cities. After leaving the musical comedy field he graduated to the ever-versatile master of ceremonies role. His first assignment was the de luxe Publix theater in Dallas, Texas, where he remained for nine months.

Thomas to Sail in New Position

Leo E. Thomas, chief clerk in the saloon department of the Boston office of the Cunard Lines, will sail as assistant cruise director when the steamship California leaves New York, February 19, for a cruise to the West Indies. Many Bostonians will sail on the vessel.

Alumnae Dinner

The alumnae association of the Academy of the Assumption will hold a supper dance at Hotel Somerset, at 9 o'clock Friday evening.

EMIL JANNINGS STARS IN FILM AT FINE ARTS

Emil Jannings addicts have an opportunity at the Fine Arts Theater this week to see him as he was before Hollywood got him and did to him—whatever it did do.

In "Tar tuffe," a German made, Murnau directed picture, Herr Jannings keeps well before the camera's eye. If his sequences were cut, it isn't apparent. When he starts down a long flight of stairs, his audience needn't miss a single step. Every one is photographed. Ditto, when he goes up those stairs and down them again. And again.

Nevertheless, Jannings remains Jannings. He isn't disappointing in "Tar tuffe."

Moliere, back from Valhalla, might not recognize his famous comedy as UFA has screened it, but its modernized setting adds a little "sure fire stuff" for a box-office to which, no doubt, even German film folks have to cater.

Lil Dagover, as "Elmira," is attractive. She has a bedroom scene, too, to help her. Andre Mattoni, the nephew, offers something new in the matinee idol line for inspection by Boston young women.

Lake Steamship's Sale Is Upheld

Concord, N. H., Jan. 17—Permission was granted by the Public Service Commission to Leander Lavallee to transfer the steamship Mt. Washington, the largest and oldest passenger craft in service on Lake Winnipesaukee, to Henry F. Faker.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

RADIO RIB TICKLERS

L. W. W.—Here's a sparkling gem, in the opinion of Joseph Mulligan of Framingham:

"I hear you gave your girl a diamond."

"Who told you that?"

"Oh, a little bird."

"Then it must have been cuckoo."

WEAF—Gladys Stein of Newport, R. I., vouches for this one:

Sir could you tell me what skin makes the best leather for shoes?"

"I dont know, madam, but I know that banana skins make good slippers."

Send in to the Boston Evening American Radio Department the best jokes and amusing incidents which you hear over the radio. For every contribution printed, a prize of one dollar will be sent to the writer.

Chatterbox Club in Charity Dance

Preparations have been completed for the annual dance of the Chatterbox Club tomorrow evening at the Hotel Commander in Cambridge.

This organization, comprising two score prominent young Italo-American girls of Greater Boston, is engaged in assisting the Home for Italian Children, the North End Guild, The Italian Free Bed at the Massachusetts General Hospital and others. The dance proceeds will be set aside for charity purposes.

Miss Helen Anthony is president. The ball committee is headed by Helen Anthony and includes Rose Reggiaro, Louise Gemelli, Julia Cucco, Clara Forte, Rose Meninna, Rose Arata and Edna Grovo.

Re-elect McDonald for 32nd Term

Daniel J. McDonald was elected to his 32d term as secretary-treasurer of the Allied Printing Trades Council at their headquarters in the Old South Building. It is also his 55th year as a member of Franklin Association No. 18.

Following the election Secretary McDonald announced that the International Allied Printing Trades Association had appropriated $50,000 additional to continue "label" and other work of the allied councils.

KEITH-ALBEE TO BROADCAST STARS

By FRED TOYE
Radio Editor

IT WAS INEVITABLE that the merger of Keith-Albee-Radio Corporation and the Orpheum Circuit should be reflected to some degree in national radio programs, and sure enough here comes the announcement from the National Broadcasting Company. Next Tuesday night will see the start of a series of late evening broadcasts of somewhat unique character. Leading entertainers actually on tour will be brought before the microphone in theaters throughout the land, and their songs and patter will be broadcast to the far winds.

VARIETY STARS

THE FIRST BROADCAST of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum forces will, aerially speaking, assemble Mae Murray, Belle Baker, Will Fyffe, Nick Lucas and other vaudevillians actually appearing in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Milwaukee and Chicago. Presumably the same policy will prevail in future broadcasts. Of course the first night will have its formal character, with a speech by Hiram S. Brown, president of the new corporation.

R. M. A. BROADCASTS

NEXT WEEK will also bring the commencement of a series sponsored by those who have most to gain by broadcasting, namely, the Radio Manufacturers' Association. This group, representing the leading manufacturers of radio equipment, has been generous in the past in issuing information to the newspapers and the public regarding what is good and what is bad for radio, and what ought to be done to solve every problem of the air. Now it is coming to the front with a series of 14 weekly broadcasts, presumably setting a standard for all commercial broadcasters. Each program will be separately sponsored by an individual member of the organization, and the broadcasts will be heard by listeners on the combined National, Columbia and Pacific networks. Maj. H. H. Frost, president, and B. G. Erskine, chairman of the committee on broadcasting, are largely responsible for the acceptance of the idea by the manufacturers who are members of the association.

BIZET OPERA

"PEARL FISHERS," postponed from Dec 28, will be presented by the United Opera Company in their broadcast tonight at 8 o'clock through Columbia. "Pearl Fishers" is an opera in three acts, written by Bizet in 1896. The story tells of the love of two Singhalese pearl fishers for the priestless Leila, who helps the lovers to escape at the cost of his own life.

COMEDIAN

IRVING KAUFMAN, comedian and popular song artist, will be featured with the Champion Sparkers broadcast through WBZ and the NBC System at 8:30 in the following program:

"Champion Sparkers March."

Whatcha Gonna Do Now, (fox trot)

Vocal solo, Irving Kaufman.

"Passing Thoughts," saxophone solo

"Drizzle, Drizzle" (fox trot).

Vocal solo, Irving Kaufman.

"How About Me?" (fox trot).

EXPERT OPINION

DEAN CORNWELL, American illustrator, who will speak for the Lehn & Fink Serenade broadcast nationally over WBZ and the NBC System at 8 o'clock, will tell wherein the American girl, often less classically beautiful, outranks her European sisters in knowing how to assemble her good points and succeed in being more charming.

ROMANTIC SONGS

THE SEIBERLING Hour heard at 9:00 through WEEI and 36 other stations of the National Broadcasting Co. will have the following program:

Pale Moon, (quartet), Logan; Neapolitan Love Song (from "Princess Pat"), tenor solo, Herbert; Last Rose of Summer, (two pianos); Mammy Is Gone, (quartet), Jolson; I Heard You Singing, (tenor solo), Coates; Kashmiri Love Song, (singing violins), Woodforde-Finden. Japanese Sunset, (quartet), Deppen.

MOVIES

FILMING of a romantic picture will be the subject of the first in the series of broadcasts that the hour, "Close-Ups" will present tonight, at 10 o'clock, over the Columbia System.

IMOGENE STEPS INTO 'JUSTICE,' A TALKIE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Copyright, 1929 Universal Service

LOS Angeles, Jan. 16—The erstwhile Imogene Wilson is blessed with a face that photographs, and a personality that the camera favors. Under the name of Mary Nolan, the young woman who occupied the front pages in the New York newspapers for so many months because of her battles with Frank Tinney, has succeeded in getting herself very well established in our Hollywood movies.

Universal has perhaps done more for her than any other company and with the chance just given her to play the feminine lead in "Justice," John Galsworthy's play, there is every indication that she will continue on the screen.

"Justice" will be a talkie. It is the very sombre play in which John Barrymore appeared many years ago. The male lead after all is the most important and Universal is making a search to get just the right person.

Paul Leni, the German director who knows camera angles and who has done so well by Universal will direct "Justice."

YOU have to hand it to Sam Goldwyn for having the courage of his convictions. Sam imported Sidney Howard from New York, one of the most famous playwrights in the country, to write the dialogue for "Childs—Fifth Avenue," Vilma Banky's next picture. The company was all assembled, working with microphones and sound devices and considerable money had been spent in making the arrangement for a talkie. Sam suddenly decided the silent version of "Childs—Fifth Avenue" was good. The fate of the talking version uncertain, he had seen any number of good pictures ruined by having part dialogue and part silence so within 20 minutes he called off his whole program. This inclines me to think we shall have other producers doing the same thing. The talkies are by no means a sure thing and only are really convincing when they are 100 per cent.

RAYMOND HACKETT, not a son of James K. Hackett, but whose dad is a wholesale grocer, is making good at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. You see, you don't always need ancestors and famous fathers to put you on the map if you have got the right stuff in you. Young Hackett, who has just finished in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" will play the part of the son in "Madame M." Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., who was to have played the part, is so busy in "Our Modern Maidens," Joan Crawford's next picture, that he will not be through in time for the "Madame X" drama.

ONE of New York's finest actresses, Laura Hope Crews, arrived in Hollywood today. What Miss Crews will do after she has been here some time no one knows, but for the present at least she will coach Norma Talmadge in lines for her first talkie, "The Sign on the Door." Joseph Schenck, who had a conference with Miss Talmadge in the East was particularly anxious that Miss Talmadge's first talkie be a great success. And with that idea in mind he has engaged Miss Crews to teach Norma enunciation and vocalization. After Miss Crews gets here it does not seem unlikely that some of our Hollywood producers will induce her to come into the talkies.

ONCE in every man's life at least, he goes in for contracts. Warner Oland who has been one of filmland's successful villains for these many years without so much as a scratch of the pen, has finally come to the contract stage. His first contract was signed with Famous Players-Lasky and followed some work he did in a recent picture for them. There are so few contracts signed these days with the talkies that perhaps Mr. Oland just wanted to show people that he could have a contract is he wanted one.

HAS anybody seen a little Scotch terrier that answers to the name of Benny? Virginia Valli is disconsolate. Benny jumped out of the car while she was shopping in the neighborhood of Fuller and Western ave and has disappeared. Speaking of dogs, a number of movie folk dropped into Marion Davies' Sunday for the usual swim and game of tennis. Marion has just received a dog from Munich, a bull terrier with a long pedigree and she was reciting some of the "pepchen's" virtues. Harry D'Arrast was there telling about Skippy, his pooch. Virginia Cherrill put in a few words for her little wire-haired terrier and this columnist, not to be outdone, had to tell about Pansy. Why shouldn't Pansy be cunning with Jiggs, the motion picture dog as her father?

Joe Sherman of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer publicity offices owns Billy, another member of Jiggs' distinguished family.

AL JOLSON and Ruby Keeler, his wife, who left the Ziegfeld "Follies" on 24 hours' notice to come west to her husband, are now traveling eastward. Jolson hasn't left the movies. He is hurrying to New York on business and while on his way he will study Harvey Gates' script of "Sonny Boy." The creator of "Mammy" is due back here very shortly to begin work and he'd better not disappoint Warners for actors may come and actors may go but Al Jolson is still the favorite in the Vitaphone realm.

JITNEY TROUPE TO GIVE PLAY FOR NURSING

One of the most unusual dramatic offerings tendered to Boston in a long time is that which the Jitney Players will bring to the Statler Ballroom tomorrow evening for the benefit of the Nursery Training School of Boston. The play to be presented is "A Trip to Scarborough," by Richard Brinsley Sheridan, a piece which has never before been accorded professional production here.

The comedy will be given with much incidental music of the period, exactly as at its first performance in London in 1777. Special scenery has been designed by James Reynolds of New York.

Mrs. Bushnell Cheney (Alice Keating) who plays the Berinthia in this Sheridan presentation, acted with John Barrymore in Hamlet, has been with the Theater Guild, and had a place in Arthur Hopkins' company when he produced Macbeth. All this before she married the scion of the famous Sill family and joined his Jitney Players.

Harrison Dowd, the loveless of the play, is a poet and musician as well as an actor. He has been with the Theater Guild, with Eugene O'Neill's barnstormers at Provincetown, and he acted with Estelle Taylor in the "When New York Sleeps."

Elizabeth Zachary, the Mrs. Coupler in "A Trip to Scarborough" was with the Theater Guild when it produced Peer Gynt and with Margaret Anglin when she played Electra at the Metropolitan Opera House. Frances Simpson who plays Amanda has been with the Theatre Guild and with Pauline Lord.

Cene Magnus, the Miss Hoyden of Friday evening's performance is the daughter of an Australian physician and has acted in her own country as well as in England and on the continent.

The Nursery School being deeply interested in plays which are good for children to see is sponsoring a performance of Lady Gregory's "The Dragon" in Weston Town House, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock as a second benefit for the school.

Sawing Machine Hit by Auto, Kills Man

Brattleboro, Vt., Jan. 17 (AP)—George L. Kendrick, a farmer of Hinsdale, N. H., died in Brattleboro hospital today from injuries received when a portable sawing machine on which he was riding from Hinsdale to Northfield was struck by an auto.

William S. Howe of Hinsdale, driver of the auto, said Kendrick's machine had no lights. Kendrick leaves a wife and child.

Curtis Leases Suite In Washington Hotel

Washington, Jan. 17 (AP)—Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas has leased the vice-presidential suite at the Mayflower Hotel as his home after his inauguration as Vice-President on March 4.

The Senator's sister, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, and her husband, will make their home with the Vice-President and Mrs. Gann will be hostess at all social functions given by Mr. Curtis, who is a widower.

What Is Best in Life?

The Opinions of John D. Rockefeller and Charles M. Schwab

Charles M. Schwab and John D. Rockefeller told the other day what they considered the most desirable achievements in life. Mr. Rockefeller said:

"It is far better to be acclaimed by your fellow men than to have great riches."

Mr. Rockefeller should know which is better, for he has enjoyed both for a long time. Mr. Schwab said:

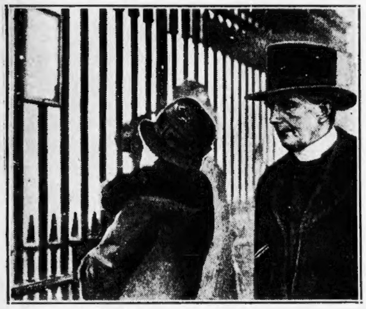
"Friendship is best of all. Wealth counts for nothing against old friends. The biggest dividends I get are in the old friendships I have made in industry."

There is a distinction, not a difference, in the opinions of these eminently successful men. Mr. Schwab is a devotee of manual as well as mental labor, and one of the greatest mixers of metal and men in the world. The intimate, direct contact that generates personal affection naturally pleases him most in life.

Mr. Rockefeller, older and steadily detaching himself from business and social activity, possesses less immediate associates. The approval of the distant many is pleasanter to him than the friendship of the few. In the contrasting expressions of opinion, there is material for two picturesque character studies.

The Good Dean Inge

He Talks Savagely, but Don't Worry



DEAN INGE CALLS FOR NEWS OF THE KING

This is the extremely Reverend Dean Inge, the Dean of St. Paul's, called by Britons "the gloomy dean."

Sometimes he is gloomy, and sometimes he is a little savage, as when he recently said of the United States:

> "It is more than possible that the nations of Europe, enraged by the bloated prosperity and airs of superiority of 'the man who won the war,' will combine to draw Shylock's teeth."

When you read that statement about "Uncle Shylock" by a clergyman, brought up on the idea that you ought to turn the other cheek, you are surprised, even shocked.

But when you see this mild picture of the Dean, who made the savage statement, you decide NOT to be frightened to death, after all.

Perhaps the good Dean will change his mind and decide to let us thrive and enjoy our American prosperity a little while longer.

May we never have any more dangerous enemies than this gentle, if cantankerous, old man, or any more serious wounds than mere words can inflict.

Speaking of Speed

Science Is Not Fast Enough to Catch Up With Nature's Forces

If the velocity of a railroad train, an automobile or an airplane fills you with a fear of traveling, be reassured. Dr. W. S. Adams, of the Mount Wilson Observatory in California has seen through a new telescope the fastest speed at which any object was ever known to move. He saw a nebula hurtling through space away from the world at the rate of 2500 miles a second. Between two ticks of a clock, this planet dust covered a distance about equal to that between New York and California. Within 10 seconds, it traversed the distance around the world. Beside that speed, airplanes seem motionless and express trains may almost be said to move backward in comparison.

The inability of the human mind to visualize such velocity was illustrated admirably when Dr. Adams' statement was made. The learned men of the American Academy for the Advancement of Science decided that it was physically impossible for matter to move at that rate in a straight line indefinitely and that consequently space must have limits. This conclusion required a readjustment of scientific beliefs of long standing, but it was the best explanation that could be offered. Science itself is not fast enough to catch up with Nature's forces!

Spreading Education

There are now sixty-three college radio stations in the United States. Radio, as a factor in teaching, is being taken up with almost the same seriousness, though not with such widely spread results, as radio for news, for amusement, and for advertising.

The time will come when through a combination of radio, moving pictures and television our schools will be supplemented by a sort of "correspondence study," or "home university study."

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

EVERY day somebody invents a new amplifier or a new sound accelerator or a new motor horn or a new noise generator, or something to make the world harder on the ears!

But SOME day—some bright, sweet day—a Great Genius will arise and bring peace on earth and joy to men by inventing a sound destroyer, a sound EXTERMINATOR! A sound murder-ator!

And all the world will call him blessed and pour its millions at his feet! For that's what the world NEEDS! A sound killer!

Something—anything—that will make life sweeter and less nerve-racking for this ear-split, noise-torn, shell-shocked generation of war remnants, jazz victims and neurotics!

Something—anything—that will DEADEN the sound of radios shrieking, taxicabs honking, jazz bands blaring, motor trucks rumbling, airplanes zooming, riveters hammering, megaphones roaring—and, above all, the sound of the HUMAN VOICE!

Something—anything—that will enable us to escape from hearing the neighbors talk, and the family talk, and the reformers talk, and the foreign lecturers talk—and Congress talk!

Something—anything—that will spare us from hearing the older generation talk about the younger generation—and the younger generation talk about SEX!

From hearing the flappers talk about "self-expression" and the college men talk about THEMSELVES!

From hearing the golf maniac talk about his stroke, and the jolly "scofflaw" talk about his bootlegger or his latest recipe.

From hearing fat women talk about their "diet," and skinny women talk about their complexes.

From hearing the men talk about the clothes, the follies and the morals of the modern girl, and the women talk about their disillusionment with the modern man.

From hearing husbands talk about how they are hectored and "back-seat driven," and wives talk about how they "sacrifice" themselves; New Yorkers talk about their money, and Main Streeters talk about each other.

From hearing actresses talk about their facial treatments; doctors talk about their rejuvenating treatments; chorus girls talk about their soul problems, and movie stars talk about their sweet home lives!

Something—anything—that will fit over the ears and stop the drums and shut out a world that is too full of TALK! That will be the next Great Invention—to make the world safe for tympanums!

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

The religions of the world are the ejaculations of a few imaginative men. —Emerson.

Wit consists in knowing the resemblance of things which differ, and the difference of things which are alike. —De Stael.

Truth is such a precious article let us all economize its use. —Twain.

Laws are not made for the good. —Socrates.

Soft is the music that would charm forever. —Wordsworth.

He jests at scars that never felt a wound. —Shakespeare.

There's a divinity that shapes our ends,
Rough-hew them as we will.
—Shakespeare.

The world is a looking glass, and gives back to every man the reflection of his own face. Frown at it, and it in turn will look sourly upon you; laugh at it and with it, and it is a jolly, kind companion. —Thackeray.

Success or failure in business is caused more by mental attitude even than by mental capacities. —Scott.

Drudgery is as necessary to call out the treasures of the mind as harrowing and planting those of the earth. —Fuller.

Be not prodigal of your opinions, lest by sharing them with others you be left without. —Bierce.

Books are true levelers. They give to all who faithfully use them the society, the spiritual presence, of the best and greatest of our race. —Channing.

Blessed are the joymakers. —Willis.

A more perfect race means a more soulful race, a more soulful race a race having a greater capacity for love. —Key.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE worst old maids are male ones!

Generally speaking, I'm strong for men, and this column is always ready to give the boys a good hand. But I think the time has come to expose certain members of the tribe.

You can excuse an aging, disappointed female for her fussiness and timidity, her propensity to gossip, her meddling. She looks the part and she hasn't anything else to do, anyway. But when something in tweed pants, size sixteen shirts, purple neckties, brogans, cheap cigars and red whiskers begins nosing around, sniffing, snooping, cackling and snickering, whispering and whimpering, you want to hand it one right under the ear that will land it in the Emergency for a week.

Men are one of humanity's choicest products—if they're men.

But I cannot abide them when they're a cross between a squaw and a mosquito.

You know the kind of a synthetic male I mean—

The old boy who beats the neighborhood buzzards to it at the slightest hint of a scandal—

Who can always tell you when the Jones girl got home from her joy ride and how many gin bottles there are in the Smiths' garbage can—

Who makes life hideous for everyone else in the office by tattling to the boss—

Who throws a Putrid Paroxysm if the office girl wears her skirt an inch shorter or her neckline an inch lower than he considers proper—

And who demands a Thorough Investigation because he has heard that the stenogs are smoking in the rest room—

Who raises Cain if anyone uses his desk—

Or borrows his fountain pen—

Or sits in his favorite chair—

Or reads his paper before he gets a chance at it—

Pests like these—and there's one in every office—are, I maintain, Old Maids of the most obnoxious order.

They should never be accorded the status and privileges of males—they are a libel on the name.

AND I'VE A SACK.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

IT is true, I have shared in enough of life's sorrows to be done with the folly of youth's thoughtless glee; but I still keep my faith in the golden tomorrows that are certain to dawn in the future for me. Then days will be brighter, then loads will be lighter, and my joys will be countless as waves of the sea! He is wise who looks forward always while he borrows a bit of his gladness from hours just ahead, and who basks in the gleam of the golden tomorrows, though the light from the path where he wanders has fled. For days will be brighter and loads will be lighter when the golden tomorrow has dawned overhead!

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—Precious jewels rarely have a fixed price. They are worth whatever the highest bidder will pay, and his bill of sale is a working basis for the price in the next sale. A big square diamond in the Diamond Jim Brady collection sold for $13,000.

Mr. Brady had purchased it for $8000. The last purchaser has refused $16,000 for it. Thus it goes. There is a true story going the rounds of diamond merchants illuminating the idea. It concerns the neat coup of a Maiden lane dealer.

He had with great care assembled a string of unique emeralds at a cost of $40,000 and after offering it in the various markets, discovered he had a "white elephant" on hand. Special gems that do not have a ready sale acquire a trade hoo-doo. Such news circulates in the district.

In his dilemma the owner consulted an able advertising specialist who, after considering the matter, advised: "Let me write a ponderous essay on emeralds in general and these in particular. We will engross it on vellum, put it in a flossy frame and send it out with the necklace."

The jeweler, grasping at the proverbial straw, consented with little hope of success and the necklace and the description were sent first to a nearby jeweler in Philadelphia. The next morning the Philadelphia merchant telephoned rather eagerly to know the price.

The New York jeweler took a long breath and decided on a long shot and his $40,000 string was priced at $340,000. He expected, of course, to begin a game of bargaining. But the following day was utterly dumbfounded with a telegram: "We'll buy." The sale was made.

A week later he saw the Philadelphia jeweler, who greeted him with a broad and knowing smile. "You thought you put over a fast one, didn't you?" he queried and added: "But we were not so slow. Your necklace has been sold to a Pittsburgh woman for $700,000." Selling jewelry must be more fun.

SKYSCRAPER building is playing hob with the sedate private residence speakeasy in the Foaming Forties. And a new hush hut zone is springing up way down by Brooklyn bridge. Drab old buildings are rented cheap and their interiors are touched up with a flash splendor and the boys and girls are flocking there. The new note is private booths where the bottle of vin ordinaire may rest on top instead of under the table where many customers gather as the evenings lengthen.

PERHAPS the world's greatest astrological business is carried on in the studio of Evangeline Adams in Carnegie hall. It is there Miss Adams and her 13 assistants carry on the "personal appointment" and mail order business. What was believed to be a passing fad of the moment has stretched over several years and is not waning. Visitors are impressed with the statues of elephants all about the astrological parlors—some 1000 from postage stamp size up to huge affairs, but they are not regarded as tokens of good luck. Someone once sent her a jade elephant that pleased, others heard of it—hence the stampede. Mrs. Adams is a rather motherly type with none of the professional manner of the seer. Many of her clients who appeal to her for advice are said to have more faith in her good common sense than they have in astrology. Wall Street operators are frequent patrons, as are many people in the arts. In her earlier life of a prophetess she was haled to court several times, but never convicted.

AND near Columbus circle is a block known as Fortune Teller's Row. A strip of faded brick houses is filled with parlors of crystal gazers, phrenologists, palmists and even dispensers of love philtres. The clients are mostly from the theatrical world, and next to them the chief interest is evidenced by race track followers and other gamblers. There are readings from 50 cents to as high as $10. One of the popular fortune tellers is an ancient, coal-black negro woman, who cannot read or write, but predicts the future by studying coffee grounds. She foretold the violent death of a Broadway gambler three days before he was pistoled, and that has boomed her prestige anew.

ASTRONOMY IN A BANK

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

A SAVINGS bank in the Borough of Brooklyn, constructing a modern building of aspiring altitude for itself, proposes to spend $150,000 for an "astronomical ceiling," on which will be depicted a representation of a portion of the zodiac. It will be based on pictures in Burritt's Atlas, which has delighted several generations of amateur astronomers, and is to be done in golden Venetian glass mosaic.

"Sic itur ad astra" (such is the way to the stars) is not a bad motto to encourage thrift, and that motto seems to be implied in the selection of this ceiling adornment. In fact, astronomical symbolism has been gaining ground of late, and stars, constellations, planets, comets, meteors and telescopes are playing a growing part in both the art of decoration and that of advertising.

What could be finer in influence than pictures showing the association of the stars with human ideals of beauty, of heroism, of aspiration, and, above all, of super-terrestrial destiny? All men will not lift their eyes to the heavens as they are in nature, but many will turn from a pictured dome to see the reality in a new light. The constellated sky is a great gallery in which are hung creations of the human imagination, whose interest is at once historical, aesthetic and scientific.

Perhaps there is a special significance to be attached to the equipping of a house of money with an astronomical ceiling. Thus to the spirit of wordly thrift appeals the eternal call of the stars, the voice of the vast universe in which the earth is lost, the voices of universes beyond the universe.

When the grandson of Scipio Africanus (as told in Cicero's beautiful "Somnium Scipionis") sat upon the scintillant arch of the Milky Way, beside the shades of his father and grandfather, contemplating the marvels of the universe, and listening to the "music of the spheres," the fetters of his earthly experience still hung upon him. For the great Africanus, diverting his thoughts, fixed, like his eyes, on the distant speck that was our planet, said to him:

"How long will thy soul continue to attach itself to the earth? Dost thou not see into what temples thou hast come?"

Then the younger Scipio, moved by the stupendous spectacle and by the words of his grandsire, telling him that all these celestial glories constitute the "homum aeternum" (eternal home) of men who make themselves worthy of it, exclaimed:

"O Scipio Africanus, if it be true that the services rendered to one's country open a way to the heavens, although from my youth I have marched in my father's steps and yours, and have not, perhaps, lacked a share of your glory, yet now, at the sight of this prize, I wish to redouble my zeal and my efforts."

Whereupon the shade of Africanus replied:

"Yes, exert thyself, and know that thou art not mortal. Thou art not this form which may be pointed out with the finger, but that which makes a man is the soul (men's). Know, therefore, that thou art god (scio igitur te esse deum). For he who acts, who perceives, who foresees, who directs and governs and moves this body, over which he has been set as master, even as the supreme God is master over the world, is himself god. And as the eternal God moves the world, which is in part corruptible, so the immortal soul moves the perishable body."

There you have pagan faith at its highest, and, like Christian faith, it points to the heavens, and thence draws inspiration together with wonder. We cannot be roofed with too many ceilings bearing the images of these celestial symbols.

Boston American's Policies For Boston-New England

FOR BOSTON:

1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

FOR NEW ENGLAND:

1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.
